

RESCUE PLANE PLUNGES INTO PACIFIC 592 MILES OUT AS S O S IS FLASHED

POST-SCRIPTS

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

"Learn to live, and live to learn; Ignorance like a fire doth burn."

At Washington somebody slipped,
And Uncle Sam again was yipped.

Great Britain sure did outsmart us at the Washington naval conference but we can't believe we signed away our right to keep our Pacific fleet adequately supplied with oil, for there is a limit even to the dumbness we displayed on that occasion. Verily, "ignorance like a fire doth burn."

Whereas the Pacific flight for the Dole prize was a foolhardy stunt, there was something noble about the search by plane which Erwin and Eichwaldt attempted as they scanned the leaving bosom of this vast watery haystack for a tiny needle, and something splendidly light-hearted in the humorous bulletins with which they kept the anxious watchers at home in touch with their progress, until they crashed into the sea. They deserved better of Fate than this.

Moreover, we regard it as highly hazardous for a Washington garage to open a new filling station without the consent of the British Ambassador.

If we didn't know that Jinks was in Ireland we'd jump to the conclusion that Bucky Harris had signed him up.

Vanzetti's sister arrives in America to lead her brother back to God, the Supreme Judge to whom, it seems, he will take his next appeal.

Well, of all things, the Honorarium Willie Ophshaw, of Georgia, whom we had supposed to be a dead-one, comes to life again and says that America needs a new baptism of conscience. Or, as he once so elegantly put it, "let your conscience be your guide."

Flappers appearing at the Great Falls beauty contest today will be permitted, in the matter of dress, to use their own discretion, but honestly, have they got any?

In the placing of values on captured licker on seized rum runners the Coast Guard shows an interesting familiarity with retail bootleg prices.

All the Prince of Wales and Prince George need now is a contract and some burnt cork.

Before getting excited over the possibility of being confronted with the McNary-Haugen bill again Uncle Sam would better look it up and see whether there isn't a joker in the Washington Arms Conference Treaty to prevent it.

We trust that the amphibian planes planned by the Navy for our new aircraft carriers are not prohibited by the preamble to the appendix of the Washington treaty.

As a matter of fact the rum-us a new national hymn—

And the bootlegger's banner in triumph shall wave, O'er the land of the spree and the home of the knave.

Col. Henry W. Anderson, of Virginia, a Republican, boldly discusses negro disfranchisement in the heart of the wet-drinking, dry-voting, law-enforcing, flogging South which has learned how to run the government by the simple expedient of yelling for one constitutional amendment and stifling two. Charlottesville is indeed an open forum for plain talk from which may come in time deliverance from intolerance.

"5:45 p. m.—Just saw a rum-runner on the left, and had a time keeping him in—Bill." The aviator who could send a message like that while risking his life in a flight across the Pacific in the forlorn hope of saving those of his comrades, had the buoyancy of spirit to rise above all obstacles. Too bad
he had to add an S O S.

HIGH COURT OF U.S. TO GET SACCO CASE; STATE BATTLE ENDS

Plea to Massachusetts Supreme Bench Is Unavailing.

PAPERS TO BE FILED IN THIS CITY TODAY

Federal District Judge Is Asked to Grant Stay of Execution.

Westport, Mass., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The matter of a writ of habeas corpus which would stay the sentence of death for Sacco and Vanzetti was taken under advisement by Judge James M. Morton, Jr., of the United States District Court here tonight.

Attorney Elias Field, of counsel for the condemned men, visited Judge Morton at his summer home here to apply for the writ. Mr. Field refused to make any statement following his conference with Judge Morton, other than that the application had been taken under advisement. He was closeted with the judge for almost four hours.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, of the United States Supreme Court, and Justice Anderson, of the Federal Circuit Court, previously had denied similar applications for writs of habeas corpus.
Mr. Field, in his conversation with Judge Morton, was said to have stressed the time needed to prepare copies of the record of the trial of the two men for filing with a petition for writ of cer-torari with the Supreme Court in Washington.

State Court Plea Vain.

Boston, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The effort of counsel for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti to obtain from the full bench of the Massachusetts Supreme Court a reversal of previous decisions in the State courts failed today. The court overruled the defense exceptions to decisions of Judge Webster Thayer, of the Superior Court, and of Justice
George A. Sanders, of the Supreme Court, and denied a petition for a writ of error brought before the full bench.
Its decision was based purely on legal grounds.

Immediately after the announcement of the decision defense counsel began steps to bring the record of the case before the United States Supreme Court and to obtain a stay of execution of the two men for murder. Their respite expires at midnight on August 22.

32-Year-Old Horse Kicks Man to Death

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 19 (A.P.).— A 32-year-old horse, Henry Ang, of Linwood, was kicked to death today by a 32-year-old horse which he was leading to the grave he had dug for it.

Dr. Charles C. McNulty, of Atlantic City, had just pronounced the period of the horse's usefulness at an end.

CHILEAN ENVOY HERE CABLES RESIGNATION

His Government Accepts Because of Differences Over Tacna-Arica.

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 19 (A.P.).— Miguel Cruchaga Tocornal, Chilean ambassador to the United States, has resigned by cable, and his resignation has been accepted by his government, it was learned today. Carlos Davila, a newspaper publisher, has been offered the post, and accepted.

Benjamin Cohen, second secretary of the embassy at Washington, has been recalled and Jorge Silva Yocham appointed in his place.

The changes, according to quarters close to the foreign office, are due to the fact that the government considered both Senor Cruchaga and Senor Cohen as being not completely in accord with the government's policy concerning Tacna-Arica.

Broker's Wife Slain At Door of Her Home

San Francisco, Aug. 18 (A.P.).—Mrs.
Grace Philpot, 30, wife of Thomas J.
Philpot, broker and dealer in golf supplies here, was killed as she stepped from the garage at her home here last night by a mysterious assassin, who fired three shots at her and escaped.
Police said two shots struck the woman. Powder burns on her face indicated one shot had been fired at close range.

TWO MEN ARRESTED, ONE IS SHOT TWICE IN OFFICE ROBBERIES

Policeman Gravely Uses
Pistol in Desperate Struggle in Dark.

INTRUDER SURPRISED IN COAL FIRM'S PLACE

Another Taken After Alarm by Citizens, Who Report Him
Hacking at Safe.

In their attempt to halt the series of robberies and depredations which has held the city in its grip for a month, police last night caught two men "in the act" of looting offices of business concerns.

One man was captured after being shot twice during a furious combat with a policeman in a dark office room, and the other was taken into custody after he had nearly wrenched the door from a safe in another business establishment.

The struggle in the dark took place in the office of the M. J. Ginsberg Coal Co., 601 South Capitol street, and when it was over Archie Simms, colored, 44 years old, of 418 Fifth street southeast, was taken to Gallinger Hospital with two bullet wounds and under police guard, and Policeman Spottwood F.
Gravely, of the Fourth Precinct, was taken to the hospital for treatment of a sprained wrist and bruises.

Office Robbed Several Times.

The office of the coal company has been entered several times during the last two weeks, and officials of the company had asked that a policeman be placed in the office on guard. Policeman Gravely was assigned to the task, and about 8 o'clock last night he secretly himself behind a desk in the darkened office.

An hour after the policeman took his post the side window was quietly raised and a dark form entered. With pistol drawn, Policeman Gravely commanded the intruder to raise his hands.
The intruder leaped on the policeman, and before he could aim his pistol the two were in a heap on the floor. In the struggle the pistol was discharged once, and Gravely lost control of it. For five minutes the two struggled about the floor of the office, fighting for possession of the weapon. Chairs and desks were overturned in the fight, and finally, after bringing his nightstick into play, Gravely was able to get a moment's breathing space, during which he obtained possession of the revolver.

Policeman Fires Pistol.

As the policeman stood up with the gun the intruder made another leap at him, and as he jumped Gravely raised the pistol and fired. With the flash of the pistol the colored man turned and the bullet cut a furrow across his chest.
Nothing daunted by the wound, the man kept going after the officer, who, backing away a few steps, again pulled the trigger.

This shot stopped the intruder, piercing his leg.

Rear Admiral Gregory Hurt in Motor Crash

Reno, Nev., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Rear Admiral L. E. Gregory, chief of the Bureau of Harbors and Docks of the Navy Department, was confined to bed here today suffering from shock as the result of a motor car accident yesterday. Physicians said he had sustained no injuries.

The machine in which Admiral Gregory was riding with State Senator
John Miller and Commander A. A.
Baker turned over on a gravel road 100 miles from Reno. Miller and Baker were not injured.

Precautions Against Reds In America and Abroad

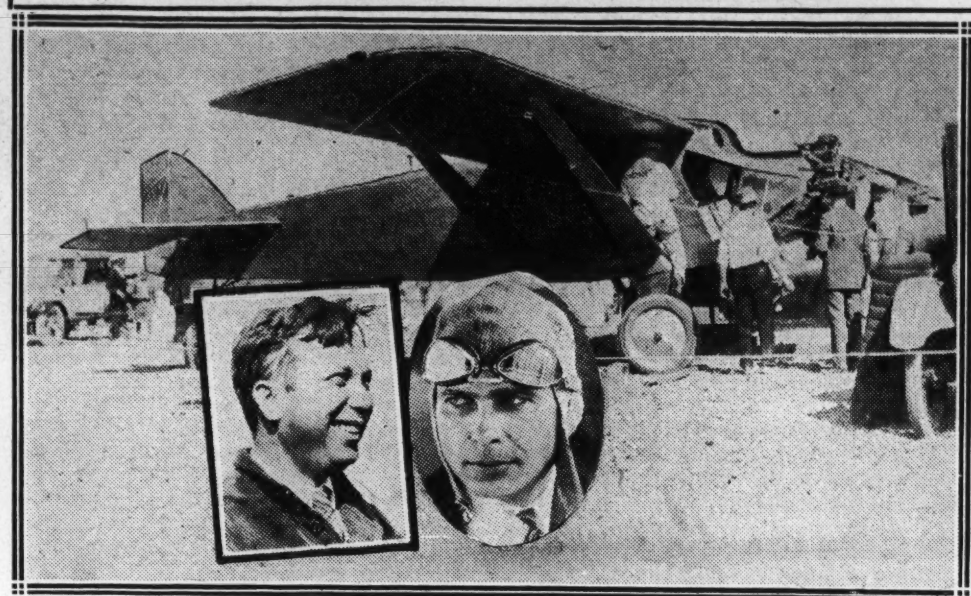

(Associated Press.)

With the final refusal of Massachusetts court to intervene in the sentence of death imposed on Sacco and Vanzetti, precautions have been renewed to protect lives and property in many cities.

Police vigilance in Boston was intensified, while special guards were renewed in New York, Chicago and Paris.
Traffic barriers were erected again in all streets surrounding the Charlestown Prison, where Sacco and Vanzetti are held.

The greatest police guard in the history of New York, stationed about public buildings, subway and elevated "vehicles" following the subway bombings two weeks ago, was resumed.

U.S. RIGHT TO STORE FUEL IN PHILIPPINES QUESTIONED ABROAD

Washington Naval Pact Looked Upon as Pledge Restricting America.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Has America made a solemn pledge to the leading naval powers to refrain from storing fuel oil for use of her fleet in waters near the Philippines while permitting Great Britain and Japan to have virtually inexhaustible storage supplies available to their fleets operating in the same waters?

This question, which naval officers here yesterday characterized as of paramount importance from the standpoint of national defense, will be brought up at the coming Congress in view of the fact that both the Japanese and British at Geneva maintain that the United States delegates at the Washington Naval Conference have agreed to precisely this restriction.

America is bound, they say, under Article XIX of the naval treaty not to increase oil storage facilities in the Philippines, or in the Pacific generally, with certain exceptions. Naval officers here admit that the wording of the treaty is all in favor of the British-Japanese contention, though it was not suspected at the time that the oil storage supply, or life-blood of the American Navy would be involved. It is seriously doubted whether the foreign contention can be successfully challenged in Congress or whether there is any remedy prior to 1931 when the signatory powers meet again to discuss the treaty provisions. At that time, if not before, America will make determined effort to eliminate the restriction which admittedly places the Navy at a most pronounced disad-vantage.

37 Believed Drowned When Tug Capsizes

Manila, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Thirty-seven laborers are missing and believed drowned as a result of the capsizing of the tug Leyden just outside the breakwater near the mouth of the Pas-sig River on the island of Luzon. Fifty-five were rescued when the boat overturned in a strong wind and rough water.

Five Youths Escape With Bank's $25,000

Vinton, Iowa, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Five young men today held up the Farmers National Bank here and escaped in an automobile with approximately $25,000 in currency.

The robbers told George McElroy, cashier, to get behind the counter or they would "blow his head off," and then compelled the assistant cashier and bookkeeper to open the reserve vault.

A man who was passing the bank was knocked down by one of the men, but apparently was not badly hurt.
One of the quintet stood guard at the bank's door.

BOLD RUM SHIP FAILS TO PIERCE BLOCKADE

Coast Guard Captures British Trawler Trying to Enter
New York Harbor.

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—The third steamer to be captured within a week while defiantly running a cargo of rum directly into New York harbor was anchored by the Coast Guard off the Statue of Liberty today. She is the British steamer Zaida. Her capture with a cargo of 5,000 cases brought seizures for the last few days up to 17,000 cases on which prohibition officials placed a value of nearly $1,500,000.

The Zaida was captured with her crew of sixteen by a Coast Guard patrol boat off Ambrose Light. She was said to be endeavoring to enter the harbor under an assumed name, as was the British trawler Sebastopol, captured a week ago.

The Zaida was anchored alongside the Sebastopol and the American freighter Ansonia, seized the day after the Sebastopol capture. Her crew was held for arraignment.

Train Kills Woman And Her 3 Children

Seymour, Ind., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—A mother and her three children were killed here tonight when their automobile was struck by a north-bound Pennsylvania passenger train at a crossing.

Mrs. Daniel O'Connor, 31, of Seymour, a son, Max, 12, and her daughter, Mary Margaret, 11 months, were killed instantly. The woman's other son, Joe, Jr., 6, died an hour later.

It was believed Mrs. O'Connor did not see the approaching train.

Grandmother's Ankles Win Beauty Contest

Stonington, Maine, Aug. 19 (A.P.).— Judges charged with picking the prettiest ankles, which danced below the curtain on the Deer Island Town Hall stage, selected the pair of Mrs. Mary Wood, of New York, when the contestants, young and old, came from their concealment. Mrs. Wood is "more than 50," and has several grandchildren.

ERWIN AERO FALLS IN TAIL SPIN, THEN LIGHTS GO DARK

Radio Operator Tells in Vivid Words How Big Machine Whirls Downward, Recovers and Then Drops as Safety Is Seen.

FOUR DESTROYERS AND LINER SPEEDING UNDER FORCED DRAFT TO THE SCENE

Captain and Navigator Overtaken by Disaster on Flight Over Route Used by Miss Doran and Golden Eagle; Hope Seen Plane May Have Survived Plunge.

San Francisco, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—At 9:05 o'clock tonight, the Dallas Spirit, flying between Oakland and Honolulu, on a search for the two missing Dole flight planes, Miss Doran and Golden Eagle, flashed an S O S call and said the plane was in a tail spin.
The radio then discontinued operation.

The message said:
"9:02 p. m. We went into a tail spin—S O S—Belay that—we came out of it, but were sure scared. It was a close call. We thought it was all off, but we came out of it. The lights on the instrument board went out and it was so dark that Bill couldn't see the—we are in a spin—S O S."

592 MILES OUT WHEN CRASH CAME.

The last position reported the plane was at 6:40 p. m., when it was stated that the Dallas Spirit was 459 nautical miles from San Francisco. At 8 o'clock the plane reported all O. K.

The plane was 592 nautical miles from San Francisco when the message was sent.
The Radio Corporation of America estimated the position of the Dallas Spirit at the time of the S O S as latitude 34:04, and longitude, 133:53.

HOPE IS STILL SEEN.

Although the last of the message said "S O S," radio experts pointed out that there was a possibility that the Dallas Spirit might still be in the air, having snapped out of the tail spin within a short distance from the water. As the drooping radio antenna was 250 feet in length, it would go out as soon as it touched water.

The Associated Press receiving operator was unable to get any indication that the set on the Dallas Spirit went into motion again.
He pointed out that an Army station was on a wave length just below that of the Dallas Spirit and the generator of that station might easily be confused with Erwin's.

The naval radio station at Bremerton, Wash., had reported at 9:15
p. m., hearing what seemed to be the generator of the Erwin plane starting up again.

Vessels Rush to Scene.

The naval radio station in San Francisco and the Radio Corporation of America immediately relayed the S O S of the Dallas Spirit to all ships at sea.

The nearest vessels to the plane's last known position were the destroyers Corry, Sumner, Farenholt and La Val-lette and the Matson liner Maul, all bound from San Francisco to Honolulu.

Naval radio was advised that all these vessels had immediately started under forced draft to the rescue of the plane, their searchlights playing over the water in an effort to get a glimpse of the Dallas Spirit in the darkness.

The destroyers steaming to the rescue were part of a squadron of seven, despatched from San Francisco yesterday to aid in the search for the missing Dole race planes, Miss Doran and Golden Eagle.

25 Ships Are Near.

H. L. Burrows, division marine superintendent of the Radio Corporation, issued a statement saying that if the Erwin plane was forced down at sea, approximately 25 ships on or near the great circle route would be cognizant of the fact in less than five minutes.

It would be but a matter of moments, he said, before the nearest vessels would be speeding to the rescue.
That the plane might continue in the air with its radio set out of order was considered possible when the experience of Ernest Smith, pilot, and Emory Bronie, navigator, on an aerial cruise to Honolulu recently was recalled. After they had flashed an S O S message indicating they were going into the sea, their radio set went dead, due to the loss of the antenna, but they were able to reach an island in the Hawaiian group as their gasoline supply became exhausted.

Seriousness Is Indicated.

The manner in which the final message was sent indicated the full seriousness of the situation faced by the Dallas Spirit.
Navigator Eichwaldt had been sending slowly, repeating each word when he broke the continuity of his sentence and with a sudden burst of speed he flashed "we are in a tail spin
—S O S." His set was heard no more.

At Fort Shafter, near Honolulu, the same message as that received here was picked up by the naval radio station with slight variations. "This variation was thought to be on account of the difficulty in reading the Dallas Spirit signals at so great a distance from the Hawaiian Islands."

Can Signal by Blinker.

The Dallas Spirit was not equipped with a radio receiving set. At the start of the flight the Radio Corporation of America broadcast a request to all ships to report the passing of the plane.

To communicate with Capt. Erwin, vessels were instructed during daylight to display two flags at the foremast if radio signals from the Dallas Spirit were heard. If the signals were not heard the signal was to be one flag.

Surface craft were asked to communicate with the plane by Morse Blinker at night, using the letter "M" in case the plane's transmitting set was heard and the letter "T" if the plane's radio was silent.

Just before it took off this afternoon, two extra antennas were placed in the Dallas Spirit so if the one plane was using hot water and was dragged off, another could be dropped and the radio could be operated again.
Radio experts here thought the same battery that supplied the light for the instrument board, that went dark, also supplied the power for the radio.
The plane had been in the air approximately 6 hours 30 minutes when the S O S call was received.
Bremerton, Wash., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—
The naval radio station here reported at 9:15 that it heard what seemed to be

RADICALS OF THE WORLD MARCH TO PROTEST AGAINST EXECUTION

Berlin Police Use Blackjacks in Breaking Up Meeting of Communists.

BRITISH PRESS REGRETS APPEAL WAS REJECTED

Boycott of American Products
Is Advocated in Geneva; Sabotage Reported.

Berlin, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—A crowd of communists attempted to hold a demonstration before the American Embassy late tonight, but were dispersed by police who used blackjacks freely. Many arrests were made.

Several of Berlin's newspapers today published editorials condemning the decision of the Massachusetts Supreme Court in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, says the Tagesspiegel.

"With the stubbornness for which no layman is able to find a psychological explanation, American justice refused to judge from the misdeeds of the accused, but from the misdeeds of the world as a whole, one of the most gross cases of judicial murder known to legal history."

The Vossische Zeitung, urging that the men be pardoned, says:

"The ancient principle customary in the administration of justice in civilized nations to give the benefit of the doubt should be applied in the case of the irreparable execution of a human being."

Berlin communists tonight held three demonstrations at meetings in favor of Sacco and Vanzetti.

London Papers Regret.

London, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Rejection of the Sacco-Vanzetti appeal by the Massachusetts Supreme Court has been received with expressions of regret by the British press. Hope for clemency had been voiced generally, apart from the question of the misdeeds of the accused, solely on the ground of the long delay involved and the mental suffering inflicted.

The laborite Daily Herald has collected comments on the decision by public men for publication tomorrow.

Among them are the following:

H. G. Wells, novelist: "The deliberate murder of Sacco and Vanzetti will be the blackest crime in history."

Arthur Henderson, labor party leader: "Execution after seven years of suffering and torture is revolting. Human feeling protests against capital punishment under such circumstances."

The Herald editorial calls for the utmost support for a mass meeting called for next Sunday in Hyde Park.

Geneva Protest Called.

Geneva, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—A meeting of about 3,000 persons in one of Geneva's largest halls tonight approved a telegram which will be sent to Boston demanding the release of Sacco and Vanzetti. It also was voted to appoint a committee of propaganda in favor of boycotting American products, especially films.

The secretary of the Trade Union Council presided. Three attempts have been reported here to sabotage American films.

Brest, France, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—A manifestation of sympathy for Sacco and Vanzetti followed upon receipt here today of news that the Massachusetts Supreme Court had rejected their plea. Several thousand demonstrators paraded through the principal streets. The march was orderly.

Buenos Aires, Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Calling on workers to strike Monday in case efforts to save the condemned men fail, the Syndical Union of Argentina had scheduled a meeting to decide its attitude, the likelihood being that it will direct its affiliated workers not to report for duty on Monday.

A protest mass meeting has been called by the Syndical Union for Sunday. The police have refused to permit this organization to hold a planned demonstration.

American institutions still are guarded closely.

Interstate Dental Session Closed

The fourteenth annual session of the Interstate Dental Association was ended last night with the annual assembly at the Murray Casino. Sessions during the day included table tennis, bridge, and other amusements.

Dr. W. B. Reed, Dr. Isaac H. Young and Dr. Nelson M. Williams, and reports of interesting cases were given by Adolphus Walton and Dr. Norton Laster.

Dr. George Butcher was reelected president; Dr. William A. Logan, vice president; Dr. William H. Wallace, general secretary; Dr. Maceo D. Wiseman, recording secretary and Dr. A. O. Reed, treasurer.

$5,000 in Bonds Lost
From Auto in Virginia

Negotiable bonds, valued at $5,000, and other papers, the property of the Commercial Investment Trust Co., of 1731 L Street northwest, were lost from an automobile in Virginia yesterday, according to a report made to police last night by Ire W. Dove, 330 Rhode Island avenue northwest.

Dove, said by police to be an employee of the company, had the bonds and papers in a leather brief case in the automobile. On the road about 2 miles from Highway Bridge, Dove discovered the loss of the securities.

Surgeon Takes Glass
From Autoist's Eye

Extricating a piece of glass from the eye of William Eyer, 40 years old of Hyattsville, Md., Dr. William A. Eyer, of the Sibley Hospital staff, last night saved the sight of Eyer.

Eyer was in the car, according to police, when a 1924 Buick sedan, driven by a man, struck the car while it was driving on North Capitol street, near M Street.

SPECIAL NOTICES

A SPECIAL MEETING OF THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE SECURITY STORAGE CO., is called for Thursday, September 22, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the office of the company, 1401 Fifteenth street northwest, for the purpose of voting on a proposal to change the par value of the common stock from $10.00 to $25.00 and to increase the number of shares from 5,000 to 10,000.

Policemen In Dot Audience At Sacco-Vanzetti Meeting

"Mother" Bloor Pleads for Lives Before 300, While Detectives Mingle in Crowd to Wait for Something to Happen.

"Mother" Ella Reese Bloor, 65 years old, who proudly proclaims herself a radical, spoke at a Sacco-Vanzetti mass meeting in the Playhouse last night, and her audience of 300 included a force of policemen and detectives of riot-call proportions.

Four uniformed policemen stood outside the door, while twice that many plain clothes men and secret service agents were "planted" among the audience inside. Just what they expected would happen was not known. At any rate there was nothing that required their attention.

Two police stenographers took down every word that was uttered by "Mother" Bloor and the other speakers, and some of it, from a conservative viewpoint, might be called fiery stuff.

After the speakers had denounced the imminent "murder" of Sacco and Vanzetti and had scored the Department of Justice, the Department of State and the courts, the 300 sympathizers adopted a resolution, "demanding that President Coolidge use his power to prevent the execution of the two anarchists."

It was a strange one. In most cases nobody knew who the person next to him was, and there was a continuous scanning of faces. W. I. Swanton, president of the Boston Police Association, was there, eager to add to his knowledge of the Sacco-Vanzetti case. He was known to the Russian Culture Club. Jews were in the majority, although Sacco and Vanzetti are Italians.

"Mother" Bloor, who has reared six children, was the star of the evening.

Her white hair is bobbed, and her face is leamed from 30 years of crusading. She "hitched-hiked" her way here from her home in San Francisco—which is to say that she walked and begged rides all the way.

Waving her arms and prouetting, she insisted that Sacco and Vanzetti were innocent and that they were being crucified by plutocracy. She told of listening to the trial of the two men, and she advocated sending more money to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Coolidge, Gov. Fuller and others, she said, would make it hard for them, would interfere with their sleep and would make them nervous.

However, she declared violence, and declared no member of the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee ever had thrown a bomb or advocated violent measures. Going still further, she declared that she never knew of a radical who had done these things.

Western Star, local economist and publicist, told the mass meeting that he dreaded to think what would happen if Sacco and Vanzetti were executed. He predicted that it would lead to direct action that would make the World War seem like a playground.

Harvey O'Connor, Washington representative of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, who arranged the meeting for the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee, declared he had been thrown out of the Department of Justice because he asked for the files on the case. These files, he said, would prove that Sacco and Vanzetti were "framed" by the Department of Justice agents.

Eighty dollars was collected at the close of the meeting.

U. S. SUPREME COURT APPEAL
NEXT STEP IN SACCO CASE

ceed to Washington to file with the clerk of the United States Supreme Court a petition for a writ of certiorari. Musmanno announced that he would leave tonight on the Federal Express, due in Washington at 7:35 a. m. tomorrow.

He had a conference with Chief Justice Walter P. Hall, of the Superior Court, and Justice James H. Blak at the Suffolk County courthouse here late today. Afterward Hill said "no action" had been taken in the case.

Earlier Hill had said:

"We propose to state to Chief Justice Hall that we are about to file a petition for a writ of certiorari with the Supreme Court of the United States based on the question of the due process clause of the Constitution of the United States. We shall then ask Chief Justice Hall to grant a stay of sentence until the record can be printed in accordance with the rules of the Supreme Court. We believe he has authority to do this."

Whether he asked for the stay he did not disclose when the conference broke up.

The State Supreme Court decision, which was written by Justice Henry K. Braley, was not based in any particular on the question of the due process clause of the Constitution of the United States.

Whether he asked for the stay he did not disclose when the conference broke up.

With regard to the allegations of prejudice on the part of Judge Thayer which formed a large part of the basis for the defense motions, the decision said:

"The judicial conduct of the trial judge in hearing and deciding the motion based on his own alleged prejudice, although urged in argument by counsel for the defendants, need not be discussed because, as we have just said, neither the judge nor any of his associates had jurisdiction to entertain the motion."

The court ruled that the motion before Judge Thayer for a new trial was rightly denied because "a motion for a new trial in capital cases too late to be granted after sentence has been pronounced."

Justice Sanderson "rightly denied" the petition for a writ of error, the court held, saying:

"The wording of the statute is clear and must be construed as meaning that the issuance of a writ of error in a capital case rests in the judicial discretion of the judge to whom the application is presented."

Rights Fully Guaranteed.

"Our system of procedure in criminal cases makes ample provision for the protection of the rights of those who are charged with the commission of crime by affording them the right to a new trial before sentence has been passed, and by petition for a discretionary writ of error before or after sentence. It furthermore makes ample provision for the assignment of errors of fact not being connected with the questions of law."

TRIO SOUGHT IN HILLS
OFFER TO SURRENDER

Alleged Slayers Would Give Themselves Up Only to Sheriff.

Logan, W. Va., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—An offer to surrender to Sheriff Hatfield tonight gave hope of ending the manhunt that has been conducted since Prohibition Officer Ed Hensley, his son and two others were killed in an ambush last Tuesday.

Through Troy Curry, arrested on a liquor charge, the sheriff received word that his brother, Isom Curry, and Mitt and Bird Nelson, the three sought by the sheriff's posse, were willing to surrender to him, but not to State police or prohibition agents, who accompanied the Logan officers in the manhunt.

Through Curry, who was in the manhunt, the sheriff learned that the three were hiding in the hills near the town of Logan. They were willing to surrender to Sheriff Hatfield, but not to State police or prohibition agents, who accompanied the Logan officers in the manhunt.

Meantime How Tomblin, wounded in the ambush, continued to Porters, whose confession accused Curry and the Nelsons of the shooting, as one of the men who were in the car when it was shot. He was probably fatally injured during the night before the ambush. Porter's confession had denied knowledge of the slaying.

Thieves Steal Auto
Near Police Bureau

An automobile was stolen last night while parked within 15 feet of the detective bureau. It belonged to Miss Mary G. Keyes, of 4431 Greenview Park, Foxhall Village.

Miss Keyes parked the car on D street, between Thirteenth and a-half streets, at about 11 o'clock last night. When she returned shortly before midnight the automobile was missing.

DEATH HOUSE DOOR AGAINS CLOSES UPON DOOMED RADICALS

Sacco Calmly Receives News of Latest Defeat, but Vanzetti Breaks Down.

LAWYER HOLDS MIND OF LATTER AFFECTED

"Go Get That 1,000,000 Men!" He Demands as He Goes to Condemned Cell.

State Prison, Charlestown, Mass., Aug. 19 (A.P.).—Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were back tonight in the cells of the prison death house here from which they stepped hopefully a week ago, a few hours after an eleventh-hour reprieve had saved them from the electric chair. Tonight they faced barely three days more of life before that reprieve will end.

For the past week they have occupied cells in the section of the prison known as Cherry Hill. It was there that word was carried to them that the Massachusetts Supreme Court had denied again the appeals of their counsel. The news was taken to them by Michael A. Musmanno, one of their lawyers. A few minutes later prison officers opened the doors of the cell and marched them back to the death cells.

Sacco had been scrubbing his cell during the morning. He was calm and collected. He was waiting for his lawyer, Musmanno, who appeared outside the bars.

"You're a pretty strong man, aren't you?" Sacco asked.

"Yes, I think I am," Sacco replied.

Had Expected It.

"Then I must tell you that the full bench has turned down the final appeal," Musmanno said.

"Well," was the reply, "we expected it."

Sacco had been eating his dinner, but he stopped abruptly and refused to eat more. He said he wished to write a farewell letter to his son, who visited him yesterday.

His lawyer said the news less stoically. Musmanno asserted that the lawyer declared later that there is "no question" but that Vanzetti's mind is affected.

"I knew it, I knew it," was Vanzetti's reply. "Go and get that 1,000,000 men."

Musmanno said Vanzetti wanted a wireless set in his cell so that he could hear the news of the decision.

When Deputy Warden James L. Hoggsett and two other prison officers went to the two men, they found them quiet and calm, according to the guards, they gave no signs of breaking down as they walked through the corridors, and when they reached the death house, some distance from Cherry Hill.

Celestino Madaleno, convicted of another murder, but sentenced to die on the same date as Sacco and Vanzetti, was transferred also to the death house. The three men, according to the guards, walked without resistance and there was no conversation during the brief trip.

They were placed again in adjoining cells, the same they occupied before the decision. They will remain there until they start their walk to the electric chair, unless another reprieve comes. They are expected to start their walk tomorrow.

Former Assemblyman August Claessens, secretary of the Socialist party, is a candidate for governor. He has been charged with the commission of a "death watch" for the lives of two innocent men to be held in the Community Church on the night of the execution.

Lewis' Mare Carries Double Ribbon Back to Her Home Stables.

Special to The Washington Post.

Berryville, Va., Aug. 19.—A blaze of face chestnut mare, Pal Mel, until this year considered of indifferent merit, today furnished the great surprise at the closing of the twenty-sixth annual meet of the Clarke County Horse and Cattle Association, when she carried the double ribbon back to the home stables of her owner, John D. Lewis, Grove Street, Berryville.

A few years ago Pal Mel and her mother were sold at auction for $175. Today, according to discriminating horsemen here, she stepped into the $10,000 class.

Still another of the Grove Stable string, Flanders, the Canadian, the classic of the hunt, exhibitions. And in this event also Pal Mel won a triumph by carrying off the red ribbon.

A trophy, the Canadian, the classic of the hunt, exhibitions. And in this event also Pal Mel won a triumph by carrying off the red ribbon.

First and second ribbons in a number of events were won by Dr. L. M. Allen's yearlings.

The heavy draft animals of J. W. Bell, a Berryville breeder, took most of the firsts in that class, in addition to some third and fourth ribbons.

Half bred yearling colts (suitable to become hunters)—Hobo, D. L. M. Allen, second; Sweet Mint, Grove Street, Berryville, Va.; second; Topnotch, O. L. Gell, Round Hill, Va.; third; Winnie, Henry F. Lyons, Haymarket, Va.; fourth.

FLINT TURNS TO PRAYER AS RESCUE HOPE FADES

Workers of Miss Doran's Home Town Bow Heads in Silent Supplication.

BROTHER STICKS TO VIGIL

Flint, Mich., Aug. 19 (A.P.)—With hope all but abandoned, Flint turned to prayer today for the deliverance of Miss Mildred Doran, 22-year-old school teacher, and the four other missing Dole Hawaii fliers.

With bowed heads, some 1,300 factory workers stood silently in St. Paul's church today while E. D. Durham, director of religious work for the local Y. M. C. A., offered prayers for the beloved little "school m'am" who took off on the flight declaring that "life is a game of chance anyway," and asked that she be "returned to us safely."

Other services are to be held in every factory where religious work is carried on during the noon hours and the midnight vigil periods of the workers. Arrangements also are proceeding for special services in every Flint church next Sunday. The movement is headed by the Rev. E. D. Durham, pastor of Lake View M. E. Church, of which Miss Doran was a communicant.

Meanwhile William Doran, Jr., 24-year-old brother of Miss Doran, continued the unrelenting vigil. A pathetic yet heroic figure, young Doran took up his post in the editorial office of the Flint Journal a few hours before the take-off from Oakland Tuesday, expecting to be the first to hear of her safe arrival at Wheeler Field. With the exception of one or two brief periods of sleep he has been there constantly waiting for some word to bear out his early confidence that his sister would "come through" safely.

The word came last night, only to be denied later, and young Doran, who had gone home happy, returned immediately to watch and wait.

"Mildred will come through," he insisted, "she's too good to go that way." There were many who shared his confidence in the early hours of watching, but as the time sped by even the youth's courage wavered. He broke down momentarily at noon today and left the newspaper office to "walk around." He pulled himself together shortly and resumed his post, refusing to give up, but plainly less confident.

Sharing William's anxiety is Helen Doran, 11-year-old sister, who looks to Mildred both as a mother and as "big sister." The little girl has refused sleep and keeps in constant touch by telephone with her brother.

Mildred's father held to his determination to remain at his farm, Otisville and wait "until the right kind of news comes."

Erwin's Radio Tells of Trip

Radio Flashes From Erwin's Plane. Bound for Honolulu, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—"Going strong. We are passing 300 miles. Will see the lights soon."

"We are carrying the tail high at 1700 feet, making close to 100 miles per hour air speed. Will call again when passing light ship."

"We are passing Point Lobos (Golden Gate) now. We are not making any lights and see the two flag signals which means that you boys are getting us, and we can see the Farallones ahead."

"From now on I will double up (increase power) so you can copy better as I know my sending is none too good. Tell McMillister that the set is working fine. Love to Ma." (The radio sending was done by Navigator A. H. Eichwald, accompanying Erwin.)

"We are flying at 300 feet and under the fog with 30 miles visibility. Passing Farallones now (2:30 p. m.)."

"2:55 p. m.—Overcast strata over us. Cloudy, but it looks like clearing further ahead. That last means the Baron is sending. Say, tell Edy Blum that his set is working fine. We are turning up 1,500 revolutions per minute and making 95 air speed. All instruments working fine. Will say more later. Regards to Edy. We are flying at 3:10 p. m. Our ceiling is increasing and the sun is breaking through."

"3:28 p. m.—Bill and I both send our best wishes to Ma and Mrs. Deady and to all of the large crowd of well wishers that saw us off."

"3:33 p. m.—Jack had a drink of water."

"3:49 p. m.—The ceiling is now 700 feet. We are flying at 500 feet. We haven't seen anything since the Farallones and all is O. K. except Bill has sneezed. We are keeping a sharp lookout for the Doran plane; also the Golden Eagle. Will call you again later."

"4:20 p. m.—We just passed cloud to a rain squall. The air is a little bumpy in its vicinity. We soon left it behind, however. Very clear ahead."

"4:30 p. m.—The weather is part cloudy, with a smooth sea. Visibility about 30 miles. Have seen no wreckage or anything that might be either of the ones we are looking for. The visibility is still very good. Everything O. K. We are flying at 500 feet."

"8 p. m.—It is now getting dark and we apparently will not be able to see much until morning."

"4:35 p. m.—We adjusted antenna for more radiation. The visibility is very good. We are able to cover 30 miles."

"5:04 p. m.—We see a ship ahead of us, presumably the Mauna. It is a large ship, and we are passing it at 5:10, coast time, and dipped in salute. They answered on the whistle. Of course, we could not see it, but we saw the steam. We might pick up the squadron of destroyers before dark, but that depends on their speed. All O. K. (Position of Mauna 240 miles from San Francisco.)"

"5:36 p. m.—At 5:30 we are passing a vessel that has the appearance of an oil tanker on the north of us and two minutes later we see another craft south of us. We can see smoke from still another steamer south of us."

"5:45 p. m.—Just saw a rum runner on the left, and had a time keeping it in—Bill."

"5:48 p. m.—Just passed a destroyer going toward San Francisco. The destroyer was too far away for us to make out his number. Nothing else in sight."

"6:05 p. m.—Please tell the gentleman who furnished our lunch that it is fine, but we can't find the toothpicks—Bill."

"6:54 p. m.—Just had a sandwich apiece and cup of coffee, and it sure was good. We changed course at 5:40 p. m. (Pacific time) to 244 1/2, true. Position at that time, latitude 35 degrees 30 minutes North; 130 degrees West. (Approximately 450 miles from San Francisco.)"

"7:10 p. m.—The weather is part cloudy, with a smooth sea. Visibility about 30 miles. Have seen no wreckage or anything that might be either of the ones we are looking for. The visibility is still very good. Everything O. K. We are flying at 500 feet."

OLDFATHER'S BODY FOUND AT SEA, IS MYSTERIOUS RADIO REPORT

Plane Awaits Only Dry Runway and Good Weather on the Atlantic.

STORM HOVERS OVER SEA

Curtis Field, N. Y., Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Old Father, the Fokker monoplane in which Lloyd Bertaud and James D. Oldory flew to Rome, was reported to have completed its first test today and was pronounced ready for a take-off.

The aircraft was described as more definite about the prospects for getting away tomorrow than that the runway would be in good shape then, barring further rain.

Today's test was a half-hour flight to try out the radio, which functioned perfectly. The first message was sent to the plane was one of appreciation addressed to William Randolph Hearst, financial backer of the flight.

The message was picked up on the receiving set in Bertaud's room at the Garden City Hotel, and was relayed by land wire to Hearst in Los Angeles.

Oldory was first scheduled to take off two days ago but a heated wheel bearing necessitated postponement and yesterday's rain made the runway too soft.

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—A storm area extending from Newfoundland to about 500 miles from the Irish coast, together with adverse winds at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, and a runway too soggy for a take-off, brought the flight of the Fokker monoplane to a halt today.

In making the announcement, Hill said the weather outlook showed no indications for a west wind on Roosevelt Field which is needed for the plane's take-off.

San Francisco, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Federal radio today reported that the message E. W. Leroy, amateur radio operator, of Alhambra, Calif., reported by intercepting a radio message from the airplane and a life raft carrying a man and the body of a woman had been picked up at sea.

The message was reported to have received the message on a wave length between 49 and 42 meters.

Will Rogers Says Ought to Be a Law Against Air Races

Special to The Washington Post.

Beverly Hills, Calif., Aug. 19.—After my Ford nonstop promotion I may never be able to promote or back anything else, but if I was backing an entry for an ocean aeroplane flight I would certainly think enough of the people's lives taking the chance for me to put a radio sending apparatus on there for them the first thing; then if I had any more money left I would get some gas and a propeller and then I would have a law passed to choke the guy that promotes a race out of these hazardous trips.

You know, everybody that we got flying are not Lindberghs.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

gan a systematic search for the floating object said to resemble a plane, which was reported to have been seen in that vicinity. Two naval seaplanes departed from Pearl Harbor early in the day under orders to comb the coast or Maui for the missing aviators.

The submarine F-29 continued its progress toward San Francisco along the great circle course of shipping followed by the Dole fliers; the minesweeper Pelican and the naval tug Sunbeam were 150 miles east of Honolulu on a similar course in the search.

Around the various islands of the group cruised other naval vessels. But no word of the missing planes and their four men and one girl came to cheer the searchers, or the anxious ones ashore.

SACCO-VANZETTI AND THE LAW.

The refusal of the Massachusetts Supreme Court to interfere in the Sacco-Vanzetti case probably marks the end of the law's delay. The attempt to induce the United States Supreme Court to intervene has no merit, as no Federal question is involved.

Sacco and Vanzetti have been given advantage of every opportunity afforded other criminals, and, in addition, have been extended extraordinary privileges to remove any possibility of error in their case. There is no parallel in American jurisprudence to the painstaking deliberation and care with which the Massachusetts authorities have gone into the evidence that the State presented against these men. Public officials can not concern themselves, as defenders of the convicted men would have them do, with alleged misinterpretations and hidden meanings of plain statements made upon the witness stand. The fact that the law sometimes errs is not proof that mistakes have been made in this instance. The facts have been under scrutiny for seven years.

One of the arguments advanced in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti is that they "have suffered enough," and that "for seven long years they have been under the shadow of death." But those advancing this plea carefully conceal the fact that the delay has been caused by Sacco and Vanzetti defenders, supplied with ample funds with which to resort to every conceivable technicality. The Massachusetts Supreme Court has had this case under review at least four times, in one form or another, and always at the instance of the "defense committees."

The ordinary course of justice, based upon a fair trial and conviction by jury, has never met with such determined and resourceful opposition as in the case of Sacco and Vanzetti. Massachusetts has subjected itself to the charge that its justice is paralyzed by the long succession of attacks upon it by the Sacco and Vanzetti organization. Other convicted murderers of pay-roll guardians would have been executed long ago; but Sacco and Vanzetti, supported financially by anarchists all over the world, have played with the courts of Massachusetts.

To the shame of many prominent American citizens it must be said that they have played into the hands of anarchy by credulity and sentimentality. They have believed the most preposterous lies and have been led into the false position of preferring to defeat justice rather than be accused of being unfair to accused men merely because they are anarchists. This accusation of unfairness comes, not from disinterested men, but from anarchists and their sympathizers. Americans have been told that Sacco and Vanzetti should not be executed, because their execution would be proof that men are executed in this country because they are anarchists. The abominable campaign of falsehood, perversion of testimony, intimidation, and bomb violence waged in behalf of these convicted assassins is an appalling revelation of what foreign cunning and money can do in delaying justice in this country.

Three days remain before the imposed sentence will be carried out. Radical elements, which claimed that the respite granted on August 10 was the result of their violence, have renewed threats of direct action. Such tactics can not intimidate those charged with the administration of justice, but authorities everywhere must be on guard to see that the lives and property of peaceful citizens are not endangered. A thorough overhauling of nests of anarchists in this country should be made. Many of these men are already wanted for serious crimes, and they should be run down without delay.

OVERPRODUCING WHEAT.

What to do with the wheat surplus is likely to be a pressing rather than an academic question next year. Figures issued by the Department of Agriculture indicate that 5,000,000 more acres will be planted in winter wheat this year than last. There is nothing to show that either the foreign or domestic demand will justify any such increase. The only accountable reason for the action of the farmers is that wheat prices have in recent months been high and firm. The agricultural element may have turned from other crops to wheat.

If that is the explanation for the increased acreage, what will happen when the prices of all farm products are high and firm, as is contemplated under the various suggestions for agricultural relief? The farmers have been told for years that if they insisted upon overproduction prices were bound to fall. They have demanded artificial means to counteract this condition created by the law of supply and demand. Enthusiastic proponents of various forms of relief have minimized the argument that farmers would overproduce if their surpluses were taken off their hands at high prices.

The present price of wheat brings a stampede to plant that grain. Place corn, oats, hogs, cotton and tobacco arbitrarily in the same position and what is going to happen? Will each farmer limit his crop so that the whole will only correspond with the world demand? No one, not even the farmer himself, thinks that he will. A wheat surplus next year ought to be an object lesson to the country at large, to be remembered when falling grain prices are used as an argument for farm relief.

SENATOR WATSON'S VIEWS.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, is the first of the so-called practical politicians in the Republican party to speak freely and openly of the situation created by President Coolidge and his "I do not choose to run." It is not hard for the senator from Indiana to take the President's words at their full and actual meaning, for he has seen others pass from the picture and helped make their successors. The task of finding a new party leader presents no new or terrifying problem to Senator Watson.

The Indiana senator notes that members of the Cabinet are not unanimous in supporting Herbert Hoover as an inheritor of Coolidge's strength. Both Lowden and Dawes, says Senator Watson, are strong in Indiana. There is an oft-asserted belief that there is a community of ideas and purposes between the two men, so that the time may come when the Lowden and Dawes strength will be united behind the latter man. Emphasis upon these two candidates is a reflection also of the conviction that many Republicans have now, and more will have later, that it may be best for the party to appeal to the electorate with a candidate known to be in sympathy with the Middle West and the agricultural element. To do so would be good practical politics.

Finally, there is the reflection of the practical politician's mind on the influence that the President may exert in naming the next candidate. The Southern delegates, according to Senator Watson, will look to the incoming President rather than the one who is leaving office. This is, after all, as it always has been. There is little to be gained politically in following an ex-President out of office. The aim of the political seers, and not only in the South, will be to pick the man who is coming in. It is for the same reason, no doubt, that Senator Watson speaks so assuredly of tax reduction in the coming Congress. Essential as such a policy is, it can not help but be bound up in the campaign of 1928. Party strategy and that of individual candidates will be concerned with the manner and method by which the tax burden is lightened.

INDUSTRY TAKES UP AVIATION.

The intention of three industries—banking, express and the railroads—to use airplanes as an auxiliary of their existing facilities was announced yesterday. Individually and collectively these three decisions mean more to the development of commercial aviation in the United States than any that have been made since transoceanic voyages breathed new life into the science of flying. They bespeak a recognition of the practical value and utility of this form of transportation, which will do much to establish the same conviction in the mind of the public.

The acceptance of the airplane as a present fact by the express companies and the railroads is, after all, merely a matter of self-protection. Here is a new method of carrying goods and passengers. The existing means can either make use of it or allow it to become a direct competitor. Industry has chosen the wiser course. For the same reason the telephone industry has played a leading part in the development of radio, and the railroads are utilizing trucks and buses. These established business organizations, with billions of dollars invested in them, realize that it will pay to pioneer in new methods. Those that can use profitably and economically they adopt.

From the standpoint of the railroads and the express companies aviation now is in just the position that the motor bus was in fifteen years ago. The ability to carry goods and passengers on a competing basis is a matter of only a few years, possibly months. As an adjunct of existing transportation lines airplanes are already practicable. The express companies plan to carry shipments at the same speed now gained by air mail, at a lower cost. The railroads see an opportunity to use airplanes both for speed and as feeders. The banks intend, through the use of air mail, to facilitate clearings. When the New York-Atlanta service is established this fall, five Federal Reserve banks in the East, from Boston to Atlanta, will be in daily touch with one another and with the Treasury. The airplane in these instances will serve industry, and industry in turn will devote its energies to the improvement and expansion of aviation. It is a big step forward for all concerned.

PROTECT THE PUBLIC.

By designating 25 additional public hack stands at convenient points the District Commissioners are helping to relieve congestion and accommodate the public, while granting some relief to taxicab drivers who have lately been ordered to quit loitering in traffic. Many other hack stands could be provided, to the general advantage.

The question of destroying the monopoly enjoyed by certain taxicab companies at hotel curbs will be decided next month. The Commissioners should make short work of this matter. The streets belong to the public. The money divided between hotels and favored taxicab companies as a result of monopolizing the public property is nothing but graft, taken from the people's pocket. Private drivers have a right to complain when 25 taxis are seen crowded along the curb adjoining a downtown hotel, while private cars are ordered off the monopolized area.

The Commissioners should make some improvement in the parking of buses. These huge cars are beginning to occupy more space along curbs than their public service justifies. The streets should be cleared of them except for traffic purposes. Street cars would have been parked on the streets in the old days if the public had not protested. The Commissioners are charged with the duty of protecting the public against private aggression of all kinds. Let the bus companies provide terminals, which they must do eventually anyhow. They should also be compelled to keep their vehicles in clean and sanitary condition. Some of the buses plying into Virginia are filthy and dilapidated and should be ruled off the streets.

THE STUFF THAT WEARS.

There is an air of permanency about the American Davis Cup team, unmatched in any other branch of sport. Once more the selection has been made and again defenders of the international trophy include William Tilden, William N. Johnston and R. Norris Williams. The only change is the advent of Francis T. Hunter, who replaces Vincent Richards, turned professional. This is the eighth year that Tilden and Johnston have played in the challenge round, and the seventh for Williams.

Considered in the light of the advances that youth has made in all other sports, including women's tennis, the tenacity with which the American veterans continue to dominate their field is remarkable. For almost a decade now youngsters have attempted to break the hold of the ranking players, without success. It was thought that this year certainly the younger generation would be successful, but alternate places were all that its representatives could win.

The average age of the American internationalists verges on 34. At that age ball-players, prizefighters, football stars and track athletes are, as a rule, going into a decline. Golf is more sparing on advancing years, but the majority of the first ten in the United States are under the age of the Davis Cup players. Neither Jones, Von Elm, Sweetser, Mackenzie nor Voigt has reached the middle point in life as yet.

Nor can it be said that tennis is a soft and easy game. The strain of a three or five set match, full of continuous action, is as severe a physical test as an individual can undergo. Stamina is often the winning margin, and the game has long since been cleared of the charge of effeminacy. The temper of the game should make it one in which the natural advantages of youth ought to tell more than in most sports. And yet the ancients of the game have so far not been dislodged. The French team, which seems certain to be the challenger, will have more of youth. The veterans, many observers think, will be called upon to make a last ditch stand in behalf of the cup, which has been in possession of the United States so long. The faith and hope of American tennis lovers rests with the "old guard." May their years carry them through.

FREEDOM TO ADVOCATE REPEAL.

The eighteenth amendment, in the opinion of Senator William Cabell Bruce, of Maryland, is bad. He has said so repeatedly and set forth both his objections and the remedies which he proposes. There are others of the same opinion. Senator Bruce and those who believe with him on this subject have been attacked as enemies of the Government. It was to this accusation that Senator Bruce addressed himself in the main before the Institute of Public Affairs at Charlottesville. It was his contention that it was his right to criticize and work for the repeal of any amendment to the Constitution or other law upon the statute books, and that his action did not of necessity make him a nullificationist.

Senator Bruce is so clearly right that it is surprising that he should deem it necessary to defend his right. There is hardly a law to which there is not objection and opposition. A man may express his criticism of the other million or so of laws, but prohibitionists insist that he shall not, under pain or excommunication, voice his views on prohibition. There is a growing resentment against this sort of propaganda. Those who are honestly convinced that prohibition has brought more harm than evil in its train are only confirmed in their opinion when supporters of the dry laws not only insist that all is well but that it is reason to think or say otherwise.

There has never been the least effort to silence prohibitionists in their defense of the eighteenth amendment and the conditions it has created. Therefore, as Senator Bruce said: "How childish is the thought that the millions of human beings in the United States, who desire the repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment, are under any obligation to refrain from expressing their honest opinion of it, or from doing anything in their power lawfully to bring its blighting, demoralizing, and corrupting influence to an end."

JINKS, OF SLIGO.

The Jinks appear destined to fame. There was that earlier hero of the family, Capt. Jinks, of the horse marines, who, as every one who recalls his history knows, "fed his horse on corn and beans." Now, there is John Jinks, of Sligo, who, grown tired of the benches and the oratory of the Irish Dail, sought a more pleasant place and company, and thereby brought about the tie by which the Cosgrave government retained its power. There are already, according to Dublin reports, new and original verses which should make John, of the family of Jinks, as famous as the redoubtable captain.

The confusion created when John Jinks was not on hand for the division on the motion of no-confidence has somewhat lessened. It was at first reported that he had been kidnapped, but Jinks himself merely says that he changed his mind. "That was the Irish of him," say some of those who seek to interpret the incident. If that is true, the same blood courses through the veins of many a public man who lays no claim to any such ancestry.

It is more probable that John Jinks yielded to the same spirit of caution that has overcome many of his colleagues, past and present. If the Dail were less youthful the phenomenon would have been observed in Ireland before. There are many moments in the life of a legislator when it is easier to be missing than to cast a vote. A study of roll calls and divisions of ancient parliamentary bodies reveals the fact that many stalwarts have found it convenient to be absent when there was no dodging "yes" or "no." The final declaration has stamped better and bigger men than John Jinks, of Sligo. They have not all been as frank as he. They have been "ill" and "unavoidably detained," which amounts to the same thing as the "change of mind" that suddenly overcame the doughty saloonkeeper of Sligo.

City Trusts and Publicity

By BENJAMIN CATCHINGS.

STEPHEN GIRARD gave to the City of Philadelphia a trust fund to establish a home and college for orphans. He directed that these orphans should be taught "the purest principles of morality." He did this because he wanted the Girard boys "on their entrance into active life, from inclination and habit, to evince benevolence toward their fellow citizens."

Harry Brocklehurst graduated from Girard College in 1871. Fifty-five years later (in 1926), he gave to the City of Philadelphia the sum of $50,000 to aid Girard College graduates.

On June 30, 1869, the Assembly of Pennsylvania provided for the appointment of a "board of directors of city trusts" for Philadelphia. The reports of this board from June 30, 1869, to December 31, 1926, have been published and are in the Library of Congress. They should be in every city library, because every city should have a board of directors of city trusts. The facts about all city trusts should be published at least annually.

Some of the Philadelphia city trusts are very small. Samuel Scotten gave to the city a fund "to deliver bread to the poor of the said city." The principal of this fund, $400, is invested in United States Liberty bonds. The income for 1926 was $18.17. There was spent for bread $17.50. The administration expense was 73 cents.

Some of the Philadelphia city trusts are very large. But whether they be large or small, there is an annual published statement of appreciation and of application. This is an honest practice. It tends to encourage others to make gifts and bequests toward the welfare of the community. Mr. Jefferson said to King George that "the whole art of government is the art of being honest." The trouble with King George was that he had forgotten his obligations and duties under Magna Charta and the Colonial Grants. Now the trouble with many cities is that they do not visibly remember their benefactors sufficiently to encourage others to trust other funds.

One is never too old to learn. There is an instruction and an inspiration in every good deed. To tell the story over and over is not a waste of time, for each new year brings new minds. The schoolmaster teaches the same subjects year by year. So it should be with the city and its press. Nor does it matter that we are not teaching wealthy men and women, for who can say that the seed planted will not stay in the mind of some who will, in time, be able to do worth-while things?

Buried in a book by W. W. Corcoran is a letter from Mayor H. Addison, of Georgetown, D. C., dated July 1, 1848, which transmits a resolution of the aldermen and council of Georgetown thanking Mr. Corcoran for his gift to the City of Georgetown of $10,000 "to be administered as a permanent fund for the future aid and comfort of numerous classes of the dependent population of this town." The mayor was directed to procure a portrait of "Colonel" Corcoran and hang it in the town hall "as a token of esteem of the people of Georgetown for the worthy benefactor." Is this a forgotten public trust?

Col. Corcoran is gone and so is Georgetown. But public trusts do not die. There ought to be a board of directors of city trusts at Washington and elsewhere.

that across the border the liquor question had been solved by Government regulation, and that it was possible to obtain hard liquor, wines, beer and ale legally, the great pilgrimage of Americans to Canada began. Today American tourists fill every room in the hotels of Montreal and Quebec, crowd the sightseeing buses to capacity, and buy up all the souvenirs in the shops.

Now You Add One.
 American Speech: A short article in the January, 1926, issue of American Speech contained a list of some of the popular variants of "yes" or substitutes for it used by contemporary speakers. Some one should make the same kind of list of the variants of "no." As a starter, here are some of the forms I have heard from my own relatives:

nope, nah, nit, nitky, nix, not on your life, nay, nay, Pauline.

Engineering From Aloft.
 Christian Science Monitor: The British Columbia Public Works Department will use an airplane this summer to locate the route of a new highway from the northern coast of the province at Prince Rupert to the interior. The route already selected for this important road would be so costly that it is hoped aviators may be able to find a new pass through the Cascade Mountains where construction will be less expensive. If any pass is discovered it will be explored by engineers on foot. The finding of a pass without the use of an airplane would be a long and difficult undertaking. Meanwhile, construction of the highway will be started from the coast and the interior toward the mountains immediately.

STOPPING THE BALTIC.

In regard to this performance of the Nantucket Light keeper, who stopped the Baltic in order to get the Captain to mail his monthly report to Boston, the reporters have already noted that it was a little like borrowing a Krupp siege-gun to kill a sparrow, says the New York World. But what strikes us as odd about it is the report itself.

What in the world can be contained in the monthly report of a light-keeper? Try as you will, you can not imagine a life more uneventful than his. One would think, indeed, that one day he would be so much like another that the report would consist of nothing but a row of ditto marks. Possibly on Sunday, if the ration consisted of chicken, there might be some slight changes, but if Sundays were listed in a separate row ditto marks would serve just as well for them, too.

Yet this highly important document has to be mailed each month to Boston, and the Baltic, a vessel 709 feet long, 75 feet wide and 52 feet deep, scaling 23,584 tons in its stocky feet, and holding 1,524 horse-power in its boilers, is stopped and asked to haul it to shore. The thing is simply fabulous.

Property Owners and Parking.
 To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The letter of H. R. Webb protesting against the use of the streets as free parking space because of the death of many children and the interference with the rights of property owners, preventing delivery of goods and the easy access of visitors and others entitled to entrance, arouses my intense interest and sympathy.

All day, every day except Sunday, you will find parked in front of my residence a touring car, a taxi or some other car belonging to some one employed on Fourteenth street, where parking is limited to one hour. This state of affairs forces my patients to cruise around to find parking space, and no doubt many in disgust finally go elsewhere.

Of course, this is not justice, but the two great American principles, expediency and "Let George do it," are responsible. As long as the injured remain quiescent and are willing to "grin and bear it," so long will they have to suffer the injustice.

The courts have long ago settled the principle of law, that every property owner is entitled to free and easy access to his property. This principle was confirmed in an equity suit tried by Appleby and Edmonston in regard to property in square 242, where I now reside.

As a matter of fact, there is a law forbidding the obstruction of sidewalks and streets, which has never been rescinded, except possibly by indirect action through permitting part time parking on some streets and by inference all time parking on the others.

The whole matter of parking needs to be carefully considered by the authorities from every angle, and a public hearing held and then the whole matter settled after deliberate study of all the equities.

REASSURING NOISE.

There is a danger in these suggestions which have begun in Paris about an "antidote week," observes the Manchester Guardian. Man is a timid animal by nature. If he makes a noise there is an excellent reason for it; he does it to reassure himself, just as the small boy, climbing a dark staircase in an empty house, whistles or sings to keep up his courage, half assured as he is that a tiger is mounting the stair behind him.

The reason why the world grows more and more noisy is that man grows more and more afraid. Primitive man was afraid of that wild nature he was beginning to tame; civilized man is afraid of his own creations. He makes a noise to reassure himself in the midst of "reeking tube and iron shard." He hammers and bellows to reassure himself in the midst of giant forces which he has set in motion though he knows that he can not always control them. He makes weird noises as he passes in deep canyons between the towering walls of the vast houses he has built. Noise is his bluff against his own achievements, his threat to the Robot which might otherwise turn against him. If, for one week, he were silent he might know fear in earnest; he would be robbed of his self-confidence; he would see himself as a pigmy among giants. Is it worth while to run such a risk?

Society Events

THE Minister of Austria and Mme. Prochnik will motor to New York the first of the week. They will pass about a week there. The Austrian Ambassador and probably will be joined by their daughter, Miss Lorraine Prochnik, who has been the guest of Mrs. Laura Walcott Tuckerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Tuckerman, at their home at Southampton. Miss Prochnik, Miss Laura Tuckerman, and Miss Elsie W. Ekenberg, daughter of Mrs. Wilhelm Ekenberg, will sail on September 12 to attend school abroad this winter.

The Minister of Roumania, Mr. George Cretziano, and Mme. Jeanne Cretziano passed Thursday in New York, but returned to Newport that night. They will come to Washington next month.

The Secretary of War, Mr. Dwight F. Davis, will sail today from Europe, where he has been on an inspection tour of the American overseas territories. The Secretary has been abroad several weeks.

Count Alberto Marchetti, Counselor of the Italian Embassy, who has been in New York, has returned.

The Counselor of the Japanese Embassy, Mr. Settsu Sawada and Mme. Sawada, who with their family have been at Spring Lake Beach, N. J., are returned.

The Naval Attaché of the Brazilian Embassy, Capt. Frederic Villar, was the ranking guest at dinner last evening given by Lieut. and Mrs. Earle Hill Kincaid. The other guests were Mrs. Walter S. Croley, Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. H. E. Witte, and Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Henry Seiler.

Mr. Andre Popovici, Secretary of the Roumanian Legation, and Mme. Popovici, who have been in New York since their wedding first in Canada and then at Williamstown, Mass., where Mr. Popovici attended the Institute of Politics, will return today.

The Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Charles S. Dewey, who arrived on the Aquitania yesterday, will come to Washington today. Mr. Dewey, with Miss Suzanne Dewey, Miss Louise Dewey and Mr. Albert Dewey, will remain abroad until October.

Pan-American Concert. The Director General of the Pan-American Union, Dr. Leo S. Rowe, has issued invitations for a concert of Latin-American music to be given on the Esplanade of the Pan-American Union on Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Francis H. Pope have returned from the North Shore. While there they made a cruise with former Representative and Mrs. Ira Copple on their yacht Happy Days.

Mr. and Mrs. Edson Bradley will entertain at dinner this evening in their home at Newport. There will be 60 guests.

Brig. Gen. August Villa, Military Attaché of the Italian Embassy, was among those dining Thursday in the garden restaurant of the Carlton Hotel.

Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg, wife of Secretary of State, and Mrs. M. Lawrence Keene, of New York, were the guests of honor at a dinner given by Mrs. William Everard Strong, of New York, on Thursday evening at Hot Springs, Va.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson was the guest of honor at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Wilson on Thursday night at Saratoga Springs, N. Y. Among the other guests were Rear Admiral and Mrs. Carey T. Grayson, Mrs. George Mesta, Mrs. Wilson's house guest, Mrs. James Fargo, Mr. Bernard M. Baruch, Mr. Harry Black and Dr. George Bolling Lee.

Hostess at Dinner. Mrs. Walter B. Tuckerman was hostess at dinner at the Southampton Beach Club.

Col. and Mrs. James B. Mitchell will stop over in New York on Monday on their way to North Hatley, Province of Quebec, Canada. Col. and Mrs. Mitchell will visit Mrs. Mitchell's sister, Miss Ethel Stebbins, at her summer home in North Hatley for several weeks.

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON

WHAT IS VANITY?

My dear Miss Singleton: I am called vain because I am very particular about how I look. I keep my hair well brushed—it has been bobbed—and am careful about my make-up. I do not rouge, but I powder my nose and redden my mouth. I put on my clothes well, I hope. That is, I take my handbags and look at my back to how my skirts hang and how my hat is adjusted. I spend a good deal of time over my bath and I keep my nails well manicured. Is this vain? I don't think so, but my family say I waste my life dressing and prinking.

A WORRIED READER.

I don't think it vain to devote part of your day to the care of yourself and the putting on of your clothes to the best advantage. If you do this carefully morning and evening and do not think too much of yourself between times, I should not call you vain. Girls who can't pass a glass without stopping to adjust their noses, or arrange their hair or change the angle of their hats, seem vain. Girls who spend long hours over fidgety postures and combings and postures seem vain. The amount of time spent to achieve an agreeable result (and one that will last), if it is not out of all proportion to the result, and to the day's work or pleasure, is not wasted.

It isn't the underwear that Mitzi is looking at. It's the lack of underwear—which is just exactly right, evening gowns being what they are. This chemise as a snugly-fitted top that curves down in back to fasten with two buttons and can never show its edges under even the lowest evening gown of the season.

The Private Life of Helen of Troy

A SATIRE ON MODERN LIFE THROUGH THE LIPS OF THE ANCIENTS

By JOHN ERSKINE

CHAPTER IV.

"MAY I come in," said Eteoneus. "I don't wish to interrupt, but I notice that the whole family are here, and I prefer to tell the news to you all at once."

"News about what?" said Menelaos. "About Orestes. It's partly good news, partly bad. He is the first place, the young man has avenged his father's death. He has killed Agasthus."

"That's something like," said Menelaos. "This puts him rather high in my esteem. If it weren't for his mother—"

"Can't you overlook his mother," said Eteoneus. "Now he's just father, and admit I have chosen a good husband. He thinks the family doesn't approve of him, why he qualifies," said Helen. "But he won't be avenging murders all his life, and I hope you will marry him, if you do for other reasons than hisadroitness in killing Agasthus. Where is he, Eteoneus? I'd like to meet Orestes."

"He's on the way, I understand," said Eteoneus. "But I doubt if he calls unless you give him a special invitation. He thinks the family doesn't approve of him, with the exception of your daughter, and just now he's well, rather tense and sensitive."

"I'd like very much to see him," said Menelaos. "Is he going to return that armor you lent him, Eteoneus? It was very nice."

"Oh, he'll bring it back, Menelaos," said Helen. "He's reliable in such matters. He'll be wanting to get away from this place as soon as he can, and this would be the natural spot for him to hurry to."

"He won't care to stay near his mother or very long," said Helen. "This is the worst that has happened to Clytemnestra—have her lover executed right on the estate, where she thought her safety lay. Eteoneus, what did Clytemnestra say?"

"Nothing," said Eteoneus. "And what did she do?"

"Helen looked at him so steadily that they all looked at her, and noticed that the color had left her face."

"Tell us everything," said Helen. "I see you've guessed it," said Eteoneus. "And that makes it easier to tell. Clytemnestra's dear old mother, Helen, rose to her feet, as if she were about to leave them. Then she stood perfectly still, while the others talked. What did she do, Eteoneus?"

"Nothing," said Helen. "Orestes killed her."

"No!" cried Helen. "Not his own mother?"

"Orestes!" said Menelaos. "This is a good deal worse than my brother's death. There is no forgiveness in Heaven or on earth for such a crime. Orestes is a lost soul. I hope I may never see him."

"I think Helen is fainting," said Helen. "She's all right," said Eteoneus. "I don't blame you, father—it's impossible. Orestes loved her, and he had the deepest sense of filial duty—it's simply impossible."

"You mean he didn't do it, you're wrong," said Eteoneus. "He killed her. It was one filial duty against another, and the victor was the stronger. He knows you won't like it—nobody seems to approve. That's why he's sensitive about coming here."

"I don't know how come here," said Menelaos. "My wife knew how difficult it would be to meet the murderers of my brother; certainly the will never be asked to receive in our own house the son who killed her sister. That marriage is set on once for all. I take it your special invitation is withdrawn."

"For the time only," said Helen. "I'm sorry for Orestes. He is a lost soul, Menelaos, but I don't want him to be more lost than necessary. Imagine how he will feel when he realizes what he has done! Perhaps we ought to send for him now, rather than later. Yes, send for him, Menelaos!"

"I can't follow that," said Menelaos. "Nor I," said Eteoneus. "These new ideas go too far. Killing Agasthus was only proper, of course, but when it comes to killing your mother—I'll not open the gate to a man who has killed his own mother. I was going to tell you, as another place of news, continued Eteoneus, "that Pyrrhus will probably be here in a day or two. He started more quickly than we expected, and he followed a number of your instructions, not to turn him in if he had got more than half way."

"I don't want Orestes to come now," said Helen. "It would be too terrible with the whole household around. I think I had better see him first alone."

"You'll see him nowhere," said Helen. "For this family Orestes does not exist. You aren't thinking of him still as a husband, are you?"

"Certainly. He is my husband," said Helen. "I don't know why I would marry a man who had killed his mother!"

"I shall marry him," said Helen. "I don't know why I would marry a man who had killed his mother!"

and another, your relatives do a lot of traveling, Menelaos."

"That's in the past now," said Menelaos. "It's time to settle down, and my immediate family are home to stay. I believe, Menelaos, may think this over as long as she likes, Helen, but I shall now proceed on an entirely new plan. I'm going to find out if Pyrrhus will marry her. You were right in the first place. If he will have her, we'll let Orestes go on his pilgrimage, and it will be a long one. If I criticized Pyrrhus, at least it was for faults I could understand. He's overrated, but he's a real man, and he can give Helen the kind of home she ought to have. It is providential that he got started quickly on this visit."

"Oh, Menelaos, you're quite wrong to force the question again," said Helen. "Let the whole problem rest awhile. Helen doesn't need to marry, if she prefers to stay with us, and certainly she must not marry a man who does not love her."

"Now, see here, Helen, you make me very angry! You stirred up this whole quarrel about Pyrrhus—if it hadn't been for you I never should have thought of him again. You've been persuading me with all sorts of insidious arguments, and these recent events have completed my conversion. Why do you get on the other side now? Helen may think it over. When Pyrrhus comes I'll speak to him. Perhaps he'll have something to say to do with us, but if he'll consider the proposal, we'll go on from there."

"I'm sorry your future has given you so much trouble," said Helen. "I wish you wouldn't put yourself to this unnecessary bother with Pyrrhus. I'm not in a position to say anything, and you're losing your balance. I want to do. If I have your permission, I'll go now."

"Now, I wonder why Helen went with her," said Menelaos. "I'd like to hear what they're saying to each other, in private. Why do you think my wife has changed her mind about Pyrrhus?"

"She hasn't," said Eteoneus. "Your daughter's going to marry Orestes. I don't know how, nor when, but Orestes, is as good as a married man from now on. A sense of duty once roused is an awful thing, Menelaos. Women have such a turn for making it fit in with what they want to do anyway. She'll marry him, and later on he'll hear, from time to time, of the sacrifices she made for his benefit. Poor devil!"

"But she went out quite docile, said Menelaos. "She practically gave in to me, didn't you notice? And I count on Helen to follow up the advantage. She'll have some of her own to do with more than I do, and she must abhor the thought of Orestes now."

"You may be right," said Menelaos. "I don't know where you learned so much about women."

"I know too much," said Eteoneus. "and in this house I'm constantly reminding her of it. That's rare in a woman. It's Helen's gift for accepting a fact that makes her so hard to manage. Helen may have been better, but she's not. She's like a cat, trying to find out, at this very minute, whether she is or not."

Beauty and You

By VIOLA PARI

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

DEAR VIOLA PARI:—My skin everywhere but on my face is perfect. My face is red and blotchy from an attack of acne. What can I do?

Answer—A serious case of acne is always best treated by a skin specialist. However, you can do a great deal for yourself by the following self-treatment, taken each night. After cleansing the face with a greenish liquid, the skin is washed thoroughly with tincture of green soap and warm water. Plenty of lather is worked into the skin so that the blackheads and other impurities may be drawn to the surface. After all the blackheads that yield easily have been pressed out carefully the skin is rinsed and then dried with a soft towel. A healing lotion is next dabbed on the skin. The lotion consists of the essential oils of rose and lavender, each mark and left on during the night. Acne usually leaves tiny scars, the scars of acne, which are often followed by a plentiful eruption of the eruptions do not reappear. To this end a careful diet (no sweets, fried or greasy foods or fatty sauces) should be followed and plenty of exercise taken to stimulate the circulation and avoid constipation.

DEAR VIOLA PARI: I am 13, weigh 102 pounds and am 4 feet 11 inches tall. Am I too fat? The call of my legs is too large in proportion to the rest of my leg. Please give me some special reducing exercises that I can do.

Answer—Your weight is about the average. You need not, at your age, worry about gaining or losing weight. You have some form of exercise, and you are growing. It is an active day, these movements will make your legs in proportion.

1. The simplest exercise of all that helps to achieve a graceful leg is to rise on the toes until your weight falls on the balls of the feet. Tense the muscles and hold this position for ten minutes, and then return to position. This movement may be practiced at odd moments during the day.

Rise on tip-toes once more. With your hands on your hips, your back straight and head held high, squat low. Rise slowly, and repeat as often as you can without losing your balance. This exercise becomes easier when the muscles are under control because of constant practice.

2. Stand erect and quite rigid. Raise the leg so that the knee presses the upper part of the body and point the toes toward the floor. Hold this position for a moment and then repeat with the other leg.

Nineties—Average weight for your size and age is 128 pounds.

J. H.—The peculiar itching sensations and the results of your scratching should have the attention of a doctor. You may have some form of eczema. May I tell you that you are a great deal overweight? Sensible reducing hints are printed in my column frequently.

Constant Reader—Your weight is about normal.

Fourteen—Don't. I beg of you, take any medicines to reduce. You are young and strong and your fat is to be concerned about your weight. Your shoulders will fill out as you grow older. (Copyright, 1927.)

Swimming Dogs

THE dog that is fond of swimming, is frequently urged by his unthinking master to go into water that is distinctly dangerous. The risks that confront a dog swimming in swiftly flowing, treacherous straits are fully as great as a human being in similar waters; greater, indeed, because an inexperienced dog rarely realizes the power of whirlpools and rapids until he is within their grasp, whereas a man foresees them.

Again, swimming in weed-grown waters is particularly dangerous to a dog, even a powerful one. Any four-legged animal is so constituted that he can swim only when his body is practically horizontal. Let anything occur to interfere with this normal position, and there's trouble right away. Once a dog's body approaches a vertical position in the water, he will splash frantically to recover his equilibrium. He's thrown out of gear, out of control, and nine times in ten he starts to sink. When that happens he loses his head, and unless help is very close at hand he'll drown.

This is the situation which swimming in entangling weeds is almost certain to bring about with the average dog, entirely without premeditation on the swimmer's part. Guard against it carefully. Indeed, whenever you see a dog begin to splash outlandishly with his front feet, even in unobstructed water, stand ready to help him, for he may need assistance very badly indeed. (Copyright, 1927.)

JUST FOLKS

WHILE THESE THINGS I CAN SEE. While I can see these things, A child's bright, flashing eyes, Stars in the summer's skies, The sea-gull's perfect wings, Riding with ease the gale, My faith shall never fail.

A day in the field, This morning smiled at me, Thought I, "Can I now see This miracle and yield, My faith to scornful doubt, Blotting such wonders out?"

And all the morning long, Twinkled the birds and thrilled, Until the sun seemed to glow With wild tumultuous song. Out of the field there rose Two living things called crows!

Life everywhere about, And beauty lavished here, Repeated year by year, And still men scoff and doubt, And here's proof of it—so far as bobbing goes.

No decision was announced as to where the cutting back of estimates would begin, but the largest sums for schools and the work of the highway division. Therefore it was assumed that some reductions would be made in those two departments. The Commissioners will be required to submit their reduced figures to the Bureau of the Budget by September 15.

Women Must Remove Hats While on Jury

Women who serve on juries in the District Supreme Court must be hatless when they sit in the jury box. Chief Justice Walter J. McCoy, who presided at luncheon hearings yesterday and who will preside in Criminal Court this fall, let it be known yesterday that when the court convenes in October, all jurors must be hatless when on duty. One woman sat on a jury yesterday with a large hat on which partially obscured the faces of two men jurors who sat behind her. Another wore a small hat. The Chief Justice insists on uniformity and he wants to see the faces of all the jurors.

Reduction Started

The District Commissioners yesterday began the work of cutting approximately $8,000,000 from the 1928 municipal estimates as directed by the Bureau of the Budget.

TWO KILLED IN FIGHT OF POLICE FACTIONS AT WILLIAMSON, W. VA.

Two Others Surrender After Battle Over "Tagging" of Milk Truck.

"DEPOSED" MEN SHOT AS "REGULARS" ARRIVE

Clash Follows County Officials' Attempt to Avert Conflict.

Williamson, W. Va., Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Two factions of the Williamson police force met in the street early today and a gun battle ensued, during which two officers were killed.

D. W. Deerfield and Harvey McGuire were the victims of the shooting. Julius Lawson and James Kirkpatrick surrendered to county authorities and were placed in jail.

Strife in the police department had existed for some time. One force claimed to be the "regulars," while the others were known as the "deposed." The latter, however, continued to function.

Deerfield and McGuire, among those who were killed, were attempting to tag a milk truck for not displaying a light. Lawson and Kirkpatrick, "regulars," were present at the time. An argument ensued and the pistol fight followed.

Sought to Avoid Conflict.

Williamson residents were stirred to high feeling by the climax of the police fight. The two factions, the "regulars" and the "deposed," were both armed and claiming police authority. County authorities considered means of avoiding further conflicts, either between them or between sympathizers of the two groups.

Eyewitnesses of the shooting reported Lawson and Kirkpatrick fired first and Deerfield died without having drawn his pistol. After McGuire fell, witnesses said, he fired once, inflicting a slight flesh wound in Kirkpatrick's leg. Deerfield was shot but once, through the heart, but McGuire was caught in a cross-fire between Lawson and Kirkpatrick and was riddled with bullets. Six ripped through his body and others broke both arms.

The gun battle occurred on a main street in front of the office of the Daily News and was witnessed by Charles Edwards, a reporter, and Asa Savage, a garage man.

Firing Quickly Follows.

They said Deerfield and McGuire approached a milk truck, standing without lights in front of the newspaper office, and were about to "tag" for violation of an ordinance when Lawson and Kirkpatrick appeared. The latter two questioned the authority of the "deposed" officers to tag the truck and gunplay quickly followed.

Williamson, a southern West Virginia town of 6,800 population, has had two police forces, one appointed and sponsored by Mayor W. F. Hatfield and the other named last June by a resolution of other members of city council.

Deerfield and McGuire, members of the police force for nearly two years, were ordered removed from office by the councilman resolution, which named new officers including Lawson and Kirkpatrick. Respective claims of the two factions went before the State Supreme Court on petition of the "regulars" for a writ to require Mayor Hatfield to recognize them.

Sustains Mayor's Demurrer.

The court, however, sustained the mayor's demurrer to the writ, with a proviso that the petition might be amended later.

Since the court action, an argument over the two forces earlier this month resulted in the wounding of Dewey Boaz, one of the "regular" officers, with which William Hatfield, Williamson postmaster, was charged.

Another outcome of the political differences was a strike last week of city firemen because they received no pay. Their failure to be paid was caused by the refusal of the city clerk to countersign their paychecks in retaliation for the mayor's refusal to sign a pay check for the clerk's stenographer.

Broken Rail Causes Fatal Train Wreck

Keokuk, Iowa, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Arch McNeill, Brawley, Iowa, was killed and ten people injured in the wreck of a passenger train No. 10, southbound, at Keokuk, Iowa, early today.

The injured include Albert Birden, huffer, Palmyra, Mo.; Hugh McNeill, Brawley, Calif., brother of the dead man; Charles Charles, O. A. Kirby, brakenham, both of Hannibal, Mo.

The wreck occurred when the train struck a broken rail on the main line. The injured are expected to recover.

Escaped Armed Killers Defeat Capture Effort

Pittsburgh Police Fail to Find Any Trace of Men Who Flew From Jail.

$15,000 REWARD POSTED

Pittsburgh, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—The combined police and detective force of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County, augmented by officers of hundreds of surrounding towns, had failed today to trace a pair of armed murderers, who made a sensational escape from the county jail yesterday with the aid of an unidentified two-gun man.

As a spur to the search for the escaped prisoners and their quick-shooting confederate, the county commissioners offered a reward of $15,000 for the capture of "dead or alive."

The restrictions placed at the county jail designed to narrow the possibility of escape, jail breaks included immediate change of the lock system and an order to search visitors calling upon a felon before they are admitted to the visitors' section.

Three additional guards, two of them to replace those wounded by the fleeing murderers, was also authorized and a committee of county officials named to make a thorough investigation of the entire affair.

Sheriff Robert H. Braun was named to head the investigation. The first objective of the investigation was to determine why the alarm system failed to operate yesterday when the two armed men escaped from the county jail. The "flathead mob" of payroll bandits, and Vashinder, slayer of a man who refused to lend him a car, were among the group.

Another object of inquiry was how the two-gun accomplice was able to carry at least five pistols into the prison, with which to arm the fleeing desperadoes.

An examination of the alarm system connecting the jail with the detective bureau and other county offices brought a preliminary conclusion that heavy paint on the system might have been responsible for its failure to function.

It was found that the paint was tampering with the equipment, which was installed two weeks ago.

Automobile loads of officers scurried here and there throughout the day, tips of the fugitives having been seen at various places, but each time they came back empty-handed. One squad headed by Sheriff Braun, with the Monongahela Valley, visiting the Bentleyville rendezvous of the "flathead mob" and then moving on to Monessen, where they searched the home of Vashinder's wife. No clue was found at either place.

New Refuses Mail To Transoceanic Flier

(Associated Press.)

Postmaster General New looks with disfavor on requests of transoceanic fliers for permission to carry official mail on their flights. A request by Paul Redfern, who is preparing for a flight from Brunswick, Ga., to Brazil, has been denied. Mr. New holds that the small quantity of mail that can be carried and the uncertainty as to time of departure of these ocean flights would make dispatch of mail by that means serve no useful purpose.

The flight of the America, commanded by Comdr. Richard E. Byrd, was sanctioned for a dispatch of a limited quantity of mail, but all other requests have been denied.

New York's Mayor Chooses Third Class

Crewe, England, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Mayor Walker of New York traveled to Holyhead today in a third-class compartment, and liked it. The compartment was at the end of the coach placed at the disposal of a request by his trip to Dublin. He picked it as the costliest corner of the car.

"The seats are soft, the view is splendid, and I am satisfied," he said. "I can't see much difference between this and the first class, though they tell me the price for the first class is nearly twice that of the third."

Mrs. Walker and the mayor's entourage, however, chose the comforts of the first-class section.

The morning field is thoroughly covered with Black Clouds, but results at nominal cost. Just phone Main 4205.

U. S. MAY ASK EXECUTION OF ACID-HURLING WOMAN

Ship Stewardess, Exonerated by London Coroner's Jury, Is Arrested in New York.

ENGINEER WAS VICTIM

New York, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Coroner's court records from London may decide whether Mrs. Mary Wals, accused of the murder of the refrigerating engineer of the liner Andania, was killed on the high seas, shall be exonerated or shall die in the long-drawn-out process in the postoffice building here.

Mrs. Wals, 32, was arrested on a Federal warrant today when she arrived on the ship, which was charged with the murder of Louis Fisher while "inspired by the devil and without the fear of God in her eyes." Fisher, who was found dead in his bunk on the voyage to London, is said to have died as a result of carbolic acid having been poured down his throat as he slept.

Statements made by Mrs. Wals to Assistant United States Attorney Leisure that she had been exonerated from the crime in England caused the attorney to delay further action in the case until the arrival of the American trader here next Monday, bearing Fisher's body and records of the British trial.

Mrs. Wals, a widow, is an American citizen. She is a widow. She would not divulge the Christian name of her husband.

"I was not always a stewardess," she told reporters. "At one time I worked for woman suffrage. I believe in equal rights for women."

Girl's Auto Invitation Lands Youth in Cell

St. Petersburg, Fla., Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Palmer Riggs, 18, known now that it wasn't exactly his many charms that caused Miss Ruth Skibitski, stenographer, and a stranger to him, to propose that they go riding together yesterday.

Riggs obligingly accompanied the girl into the City Hall when she requested him to do so as they passed the building. There Miss Skibitski asked police to arrest Riggs for the theft of her automobile, which had been missing for several days and which had been recognized.

Riggs said the car had been given him by a man named Smith, but he was held under $500 bond.

ELEVEN ARE INDICTED AFTER BANK FAILURE

President Accused of Forgery; County Officers Face Charges.

North Wilkesboro, N. C., Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Eleven indictments growing out of the failure of the bank of Wilkes and investigation of the series of alleged fraudulent notes sold to a number of banks, were returned by the Wilkes County grand jury, it was learned today.

Clem Wrenn, president of the defunct bank, who, Solicitor General, was charged with forging notes for $25,000 each against funds of the county board of education, was indicted on a charge of forgery.

Charles Miles, cashier and W. E. Pate, assistant cashier, were indicted on charges of falsifying checks.

The true bills returned by the grand jury included indictments on charges of forgery against A. G. Hendren, W. H. Foster, W. B. Somers, W. C. Meadows, R. H. Spaulding, and J. P. Morrison, directors of the bank.

C. C. Faw, chairman of the county board of education, was indicted on a number of counts, among them one in connection with the alleged fraudulent notes and another accusing him of being a party to the forgery.

A. Brever, chairman of the board of county commissioners, was accused of signing a fraudulent note.

The Housekeeper

SUPPOSE first of all we have our menu, since of late it has suffered in favor of answers to letters. The letters shall come "with but after," as the phrase goes.

MENU
Chilled Melon
Celery Currant Jelly
Veal Cutlets in Casserole
Creamed Cauliflower
Mashed Potatoes
Sliced Tomatoes
Date Pudding Foamy Sauce
Coffee

Select small cutlets, even cutlet trimmings. If the trimmings are to be used allow one to each person to be served.

Salt and pepper the meat, dip in beaten eggs and cracker crumbs and fry in deep fat until a golden brown. Place in a casserole dish, preferably a glass one, and add just sufficient milk to come to the top of the meat. Do over with small pieces of butter. Bake in a slow oven until the meat is tender.

Date Pudding.

1 pound dates, stoned
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 scant teaspoon ginger
1/2 cup milk
Pinch salt
1/2 pound suet
1 cup flour
2 eggs
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup broken bread or bread crumbs.
Grind the dates and suet with the medium blade of the meat grinder and mix all of the materials well together, beating the eggs and adding them to the ingredients last of all. Turn into a well-buttered mold and place in a larger pan which contains water. The mold must be closely covered, as in turn must be the pan in which the mold is placed. Steam for two hours.
Foamy Sauce.
Beat the whites of two eggs until stiff and dry looking. Gradually add to the beaten eggs 1 cup of powdered sugar and again beat thoroughly. Add a fourth cup of hot milk, a teaspoonful of vanilla and a pinch of salt and the sauce is ready to serve.

Is your recipe for soft gingerbread for our column, Mrs. Thomas (Kenneth Square, Pa.), or do you send it because of the advertisement in the magazine, whose statement was in error? We have no weekly prize awards; what we really have is a perfectly delightful time with this "get together," which is our Housekeeper column, and when friends send recipes to us it is from the goodness of their heart and for the glory of all homemakers. May we use your recipe one of these days?

And thank you M. White, (Wales, Tenn.) for your acknowledgment of my little cook book. I am delighted that you find it useful and to know too, that you are learning to cook. Once, not so very long ago a florist in this city, when we were sitting in his office up above his many flowers, said to me that his (the florist business) was the most pleasant of any on the face of God's green earth. I was almost sure that he was right, sitting there above his flowers with their fragrance floating up to me with all the sweetness of Spring; but I think too, that this business of ours is a pleasant one, for we more than eat to live, we eat to be well, and to be well is to be happy. So do your "learning" ever so painstakingly, that when the transition period is over and you venture forth a homemaker you may enjoy the fruits of your endeavor with ease and success.

Your information has already gone forth to you, Miss Nolan—and doubtless you have the name of the farmer by this time. Tuck it away that it may be safe many years hence for I have ordered my maple cream each year from that farmer for a long number of years, until the address need no longer be written on a little card, as yours is. The cream is delicious, and I know you will greatly enjoy it.

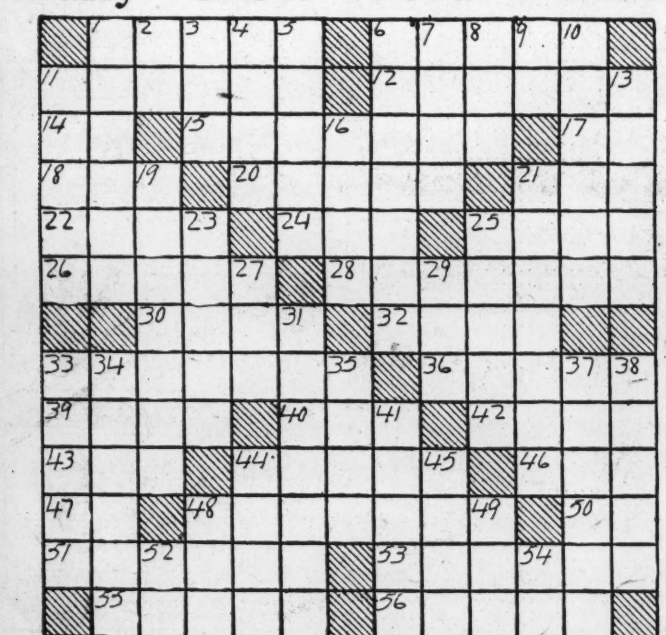

Certainly you may have a recipe for floating island, Mrs. (?) A. I could not quite make out your first initial.

Floating Island.
1 quart sweet milk
1/2 cup of sugar
4 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla.
1 tablespoon cornstarch.

Put the milk on to boil in a double boiler. Beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth; put them, a few spoonfuls at a time, on top of the boiling milk. Let cook one minute and then remove them with a skimmer. Now beat the yolks of the eggs, sugar and cornstarch together until light, then stir them into the boiling milk. Stir for a few seconds, not more than a minute, and take from the fire. Add the vanilla and set aside to cool. When cold pour into a glass dish, heap on the whites of the eggs, dot with bits of currant jelly, dust (if desired) with powdered sugar and serve thoroughly chilled.

NATS LOSE TO BROWNS, 6 TO 1; DISPLACE IN PERIL

Tilden-Hunter East-West Victors

Teamed for 1st Time, Davis Contenders Show Form.

Doeg and Lott Are Handed Defeat in Straight Sets.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Crack tennis teams of East and West battled on even terms today in the first four matches of the annual interschool tournament. Five more matches tomorrow will decide the winner.

The East, which won a shut-out victory last year, needed all the power of the Davis Cup rackets of William T. Tilden, Philadelphia, and Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., to gain an even break.

Playing together for the first time since being named yesterday to defend the cup, the pair who won the championship of England earlier in the summer, scored in straight sets over the youthful Westerners, John Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., and George M. Lott, Jr., Chicago. The scores were 6-1, 6-2, 6-1.

The other Eastern victory was won by Manuel Alonso, of Philadelphia, second in the national ranking, over John Hennessy, Indianapolis, 6-2, 7-9, 6-2.

Both of the Western wins were gained in singles, Lewis N. White, Austin, Tex., sixth in the national ranking, started the day by defeating Watson Washburn, of New York, one time Davis Cup player, but now ranked twenty-first. The score was 6-3, 5-7, 6-4. Clarence Griffin, San Francisco veteran, outdistanced the national junior champion, Frank Shields, of New York, to win by 6-1, 6-2.

The feature battle was that between the powerful Tilden-Hunter combination and the two youngsters who have come out of the West to gain places as alternates on the Davis Cup team.

It was a hard-fought match, but the long experience of the veterans as a team told strongly in their favor. Their young opponents, playing together virtually for the first time, relied largely on spectacular individual plays, which gave the small but appreciative gallery plenty to applaud.

White's victory over Washburn was won despite the handicap of a badly wrecked side, suffered in the Davis Cup trials earlier in the week. The injury sapped much of the power from the Texan's game, and the result was a fairly even match.

Alonso, the dashing little veteran of the Spanish Davis Cup team, was at his best against Hennessy, and the Middle Westerner could not find a spot on the court that Alonso could not reach.

The nearest to an upset was Griffin's triumph over the 17-year-old Shields. The latter proved erratic, while Griffin, a veteran of many campaigns, made every shot count.

With two victories apiece, the winning team must take three of the following five matches scheduled for tomorrow to capture the championship: John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., against Grant Holman, San Francisco; Alonso and Washburn against White and Louis Thalhimer, Dallas, Tex.; Dr. George King, New York, against Doeg; Hunter against Lott; Van Ryn and Shields against Holman and Griffin.

Two Newcomers Play For Women's Title

Lake Geneva, Wis., Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Two young women who never before attained such heights in golf are the finalists in the women's Western championship, at Lake Geneva Country Club, as the result of brilliant victories today over two former champions, who have been playing scratch golf for years.

One, Mrs. Harry Pressler, of Los Angeles, never before competed in this event, but she has scored close to par in every round thus far, breaking par 81 by one stroke in the last three rounds and being a slight favorite for the finals at 36 holes. She defeated Mrs. Dave Gault, of Memphis, today, 2 and 1, winning the first three holes and never being caught, although the former champion cut her lead to one up on the fifteenth, after being four down.

Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, the other survivor of the semifinals, did not shoot nearly so well in eliminating, 2 and 1, Mrs. Elaine Rosenthal Reinhardt, of Dallas, who lives most of the time in Chicago and has won the Western crown three times.

Chicago Wins 3-2; GEHRIG HITS 39th

Ted Blankenship Hurls Team to Victory Over Yanks.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (A.P.)—Lou Gehrig was the Yankee offense today, but his efforts could not quite match the hurling of Ted Blankenship for the Chicago White Sox and the Yanks took a 3-to-2 licking.

Columbia took a lead of one homer over Babe Ruth in the race for distance-hitting honors by clouting his thirty-third of the season, with none on in the ninth. In the sixth Gehrig's double scored Keenig, who had singled and moved ahead on Ruth's hit.

Kiki Cuyler, in a pinch hit, broke Benton to the showers gave Leo Goetz the lead in the seventh by tripping with the bases full to cap the climax of Pittsburgh's big inning.

Rogers Hornsby and Bill Terry hit homers in the eighth. Rogers hit Jackson, Paul Waner and Earl Smith drove for the circuit in the second.

TUNNEY HELD TO LEAN TO SOCIETY

Pegler Says Champ Had Marathon Ambitions

La Salle School he went to work as a typist in a railroad office and advanced himself to the position of rate clerk.

Up to this time there had never been any social intercourse between the Tunneys of Greenwich Village and the Ogden Reids, who are something or other with relation to the late White-law Reid who was Ambassador to the Court of St. James and in a position to snub Vanderbilt.

Tunney escorted Mrs. Ogden here to the recent boxing contest between Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey and was much amused to learn later that the radio announcer with wretched stupidity, assumed that the lady was his mother and said so for the world

Of course, nobody's feelings were hurt, but it just goes to show the sort of annoyance that one's friends are likely to be subjected to when one is prominent.

Gene was still a rate clerk in the railroad office when the United States entered the war and he enlisted in the Marine Corps. He insists that he never had had a professional fight, or contest, up to that time, notwithstanding reports to the contrary which will register in the prize fight profession in

New York. The prize fight profession has a strange tendency to minimize his achievements because he has always had a tendency to advance from one social grade to another and he long since liquidated his social assets in the profession to set himself up socially

Thus, if it could be shown that Tunney was a prize fighter before he went into the Marine Corps, it could be made to appear that he is just a prize fighter by inclination whereas Gene would rather have it appear that he was merely an athletic young man who discovered a talent for boxing while serving in the corps and later went along to demonstrate that a person of superior type could vanquish the best that the sordid elements

In France after the armistice was signed, the air became crowded with boxing gloves and the eliminations began for the A. E. F. and intrallied tournaments. Tunney said he still had no idea of becoming a pugilist but that the Marines in his own company discovered that he could box a little and put him forward one night to fight as a substitute against somebody named Eldell. He had gone to the bouts with no idea of fighting and had to go into the ring wearing babe but after two

This brings Tunney up to the beginning of his career as a prize fighter, or professional boxer as he will insist upon describing himself and the development of that strange arrogance toward the lower orders of society and that strange power of ingratiating with the rich who regard him as quite a hell of a fellow, while the prize fight industry is just as positive that he is a hell of a fellow.

RITCHIE TALK AT ARMORY WILL BE ON AIR TONIGHT

Governor Will Speak at the Dedication Services in Silver Spring, Md.

BROWN TRIO ON WMAL

An address by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, will be one of the features of the dedication of the new National Guard Armory at Silver Spring, Md., to be broadcast by WRC tonight at 8 o'clock. Maj. E. Brooke Lee, speaker of the House of Representatives of Maryland, will also speak and music will be furnished by the United States Army Band.

A new local feat—the Chrysler Orchestra, presented by H. B. Leary, Jr., and Brother, distributors of Chrysler cars, will be heard from the studios of WRC between 9:15 and 9:45 o'clock. The New York Philharmonic Orchestra, again directed by William Von Hoogstraten, will be broadcast direct from Lewisohn Stadium, beginning at 7:25 o'clock. The program includes the overture, "Marriage of Figaro," by Mozart; Symphony No. 3 in F, by Brahms; "A Victory Ball," by Shelling, and the "Nutcracker" Suite, by Tchaikovsky.

George F. Ross, of the WRC staff, will play a group of piano solos between 7 and 7:10 o'clock, at which time Everett P. Haycraft, vice president of the District of Columbia Sunday School Council of Religious Education, will give the Bible talk, presented weekly under the auspices of the Bible Class Association.

Cass Hagan and his Park Central Orchestra and Bob Peterson's Palais d'Or Orchestra will be broadcast between 9:45 and 11 o'clock, furnishing the regular Saturday evening dance program. Following an organ recital from the Homer Kist Studios, a play-by-play description of the Washington-Detroit baseball game will be put on the air by Thornton Fisher.

A musical program by the Brown Trio, composed of Loretta Brown, Ethel Brown, and Clinton Brown, Jr., who are newcomers to Station WMAL, at 8 o'clock. The Colonial Male Quartet of Falls Church, Va., will broadcast a program of negro spirituals between 9 and 9:30 o'clock, after which the Monarchs will take up a half-hour. Lennie Blush, soloist, will assist the trio.

The scene of the "week-end party" tonight will be the Saratoga track, while the horse-racing season is at its height there. This program will not be broadcast by WRC tonight. An orchestral unit new to radio listeners and known as the Balladeers, will be heard with the Keynote Duo in a half-hour program from WJZ at 9 o'clock tonight. The Balladeers will be directed by Hugo Martin, who, in "Melody Time," a brand new feature, has made its bow to radio listeners.

25 NEW DOWNTOWN HACK STANDS HELD TO BE INSUFFICIENT

Diamond Officials Say Hesse's Program Is Needed for Complete Relief.

Black and White Head Denies He Referred to Unions as "Reds."

Twenty-five new downtown hack stands were created by order of the Commissioners yesterday to relieve present conditions. Heretofore only fifteen hack stands with signs have been compelled to suffice for hundreds of vehicles, and independent drivers were arrested for stopping elsewhere. Officials of the Diamond Cab Co., composed of independent drivers, said yesterday that the 25 new stands, which will be made available as soon as signs can be painted, will provide some relief in the business section. However, they explained it would be necessary to put into effect the full program of the superintendent of police before the relief would be spread over the District as a whole. The 25 stands were selected from a list of 202 stands covering the entire District recommended two months ago by Superintendent of Police Hesse.

Hack Stands Ordered.

The stands ordered were as follows: In F street at Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth streets; G street at Fifteenth and North Capitol streets; E street at Thirteenth (two stands), Fourteenth, Eighth and Ninth streets; Pennsylvania avenue at Seventh, Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth and a half streets; D street at Seventh and Ninth streets and at John Marshall place; Market space and Eighth street; Fifteenth and H streets; New York avenue and Ninth street; M street at Thomas Circle; Rhode Island avenue and Fourteenth street; Seventeenth street and New York avenue, and K and Seventh streets, all northwest.

The large taxicab companies which enjoy hotel concessions are not so pressed for parking or standing space since the hotel fronts are equivalent to hack stands.

In the recommendation of Superintendent of Police Hesse, street space in front of hotels would be converted into public hack stands, with the result that there would be no change from their present condition except that independent harkers as well as taxicab companies enjoying the concessions would be allowed to park at them. The independent cabs now are barred by force of a court decision many years ago allowing hotels to designate space for vehicles for the use of their guests.

Brown Answers Letter.

William J. Brown, president of the Black & White Taxicab Co., yesterday answered the letter written him the other day by Frank J. Coleman, secretary of the Central Labor Union.

Mr. Brown emphatically denied he had referred to organized labor here as composed of "reds" and "bolsheviks." He declared he and his associates always had been friendly to organized labor and had been active in its support. The Black & White Co., he said, has a considerable patronage in the ranks of organized labor and desires to extend it. He said:

"During the past four years we have constructed in Washington two garages costing upwards of $500,000. These garages were built by firms employing organized labor exclusively. We have subscribed to numerous programs and entertainments of union labor."

Leaders of the newly formed taxicab union here, however, say that the men

HIGHWAY PLAN CHANGED IN UNDEVELOPED AREAS

Extension of Fourteenth Street From Walter Reed, Is Authorized.

LAND PURCHASE ORDERED

Changes in the highway plan for undeveloped sections of the city were made at an intermediate session of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission yesterday, the District Commissioners having reported their approval.

They include elimination from the highway plan of Volta place between Forty-second and Forty-fourth streets in the area between Georgetown University and Foxhall Village, and changes in the location of Twenty-seventh street and Swart road just north of Broad Branch road in order to preserve the line and grade of the existing old thoroughfare there.

Purchase of several small tracts, totaling more than 30 acres, was authorized by the commission. It will acquire as a considerable part of the Takoma recreation center, 12 acres lying between Fifth, Third, Sheridan and Underwood streets and several small areas totaling approximately 19 acres in the Shepard parkway along the bluff between Blue Plains reservation and the naval air station at Anacostia. Condemnation of about 3 acres in the Piney Branch district west of Sixteenth street also was reported.

FREE MARKET SPACE IS OFFERED FARMERS

Part of Convention Hall Property Can Be Utilized, J. S. Blick, Says.

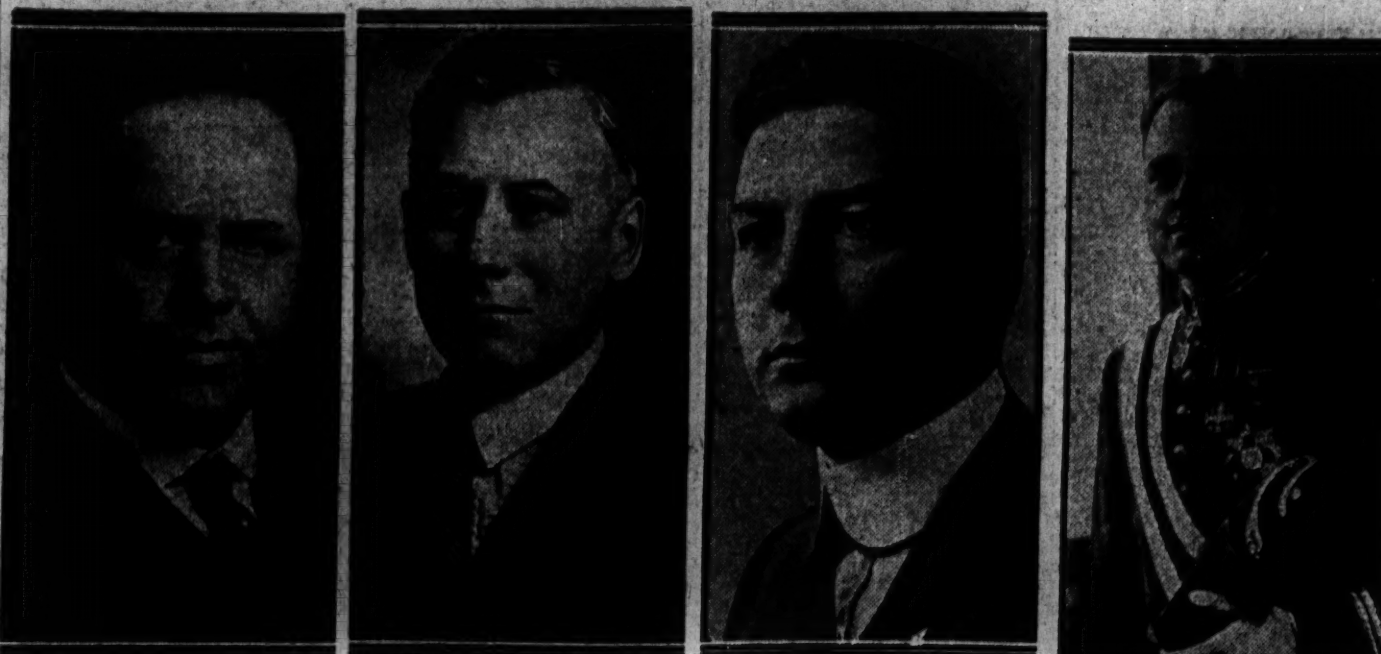

John S. Blick, president of the Washington Convention Hall Co., yesterday transmitted to the District Commissioners an offer to permit farmers bringing produce to market to occupy gratis part of the property of the company either permanently or temporarily pending location of the farmers' market on a new site.

The Commissioners saw in the offer a possible solution for the emergency that confronts them by the recent demand of the Treasury Department that the remainder of the old farmers' market be vacated at once to permit immediate starting of the erection of the Internal Revenue Building.

Leo Simmons, an attorney, also wrote the Commissioners. He suggested that the farmers temporarily be permitted to sell their wares along Ohio avenue northwest between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, extending northward in the latter street if necessary. The Commissioners took no action.

Suit Filed to Prevent Transfer-Truck Sale

Suit to prevent the sale by the collector of taxes of a truck of the Big 4 Transfer Co. for alleged nonpayment of taxes was filed yesterday in Equity Court by the Ruggles Motor Truck Co., of Saginaw, Mich.

The plaintiff, through Attorney James Conlon, says that it sold the truck on a conditional bill of sale to the Big 4 concern and that the latter still owes $3,300. The sale of the truck is scheduled for August 23. It is charged that the interest of the plaintiff in the truck will be endangered by the proposed sale by the collector of taxes. The court is asked to appoint a receiver to sell the truck.

TWO ARRESTED IN LIQUOR RAID MADE DOWNTOWN

Six Quarts of Whisky Also Seized and Book Containing Hundreds of Names.

DOOR IS BATTERED DOWN

A daylight raid was staged by police of the flying squadron at 826 Fourteenth street northwest yesterday afternoon, when two men were arrested and a dozen or more driven from a room on the third floor.

Harry M. Douthitt, field secretary of the Citizens Service Association, who accompanied the raiders, is said to have furnished information which led to the arrests.

About six quarts of alleged liquor were seized. A few jibes and cat-calls were heard from the large crowd assembled in front of the place when the police appeared at the door with their prisoners and a small box containing evidence.

The men arrested gave their names as Leonard Jones, 28 years old, and Frank Litt, 43, both of Hyattsville, Md. They are charged with illegal possession and sale of liquor.

The police battered down a three-inch oak door at the entrance to the establishment when they were denied admission. Those in charge of the place had a mail box through which they peered from the inside to see who was outside. When they saw Sgt. Little and Douthitt, police say, they ran to the rear of the place and attempted to hide the alleged liquor by lowering it on a dumbwaiter. The device failed to operate promptly and the door crashed in under the blows of the raiders.

A black book containing the names of several hundred persons was seized and taken to the Sixth Precinct station.

The raiding party included Police-men George C. Deyoe, Leo Murray, T. O. Montgomery and Prohibition Agent R. F. Cornett.

The raid on Rosenthal's place was conducted by the flying squadron under Sergt. George D. Little. Rosenthal was charged with illegal possession and with sale of liquor.

WAR OFFICIALS DENY 30,000 RESERVE CUT

Mobilization Plan, However, to Be Revised in Future, Department Says.

Denial of reports that the six-field Army program had been abandoned, involving dismissal of approximately 30,000 reserve officers, was made yesterday by the War Department.

Department officials explained that all war plans, including the mobilization one, must be revised and adjusted from time to time to meet changes of

DRIVE TO MAKE CITY CENTER OF NATIONAL ASSOCIATIONS BEGUN

Joint Industrial Union Committee to Send Letters to Organizations.

"Live Prospects" Declared Offered in Solicitation for Airplane Plants.

An organized effort to bring headquarters of national organizations of all kinds to Washington was started by the committee on new industries of the joint industrial union, composed of representatives of the various trade organizations of this region, at a meeting yesterday in the offices of the Chamber of Commerce in the Homer Building.

The first move of the committee will be to send a letter to organizations urging establishment of national headquarters here. The letter will cite the advantages of Washington, saying the National Capital is the proper place for national things.

Although many organizations on their own account have established national headquarters here or have made initial moves in that direction, and local trade groups have encouraged them, this will be the first organized action taken by local business groups by way of solicitation, it is said.

Capital Own Drawing Card.

The committee feels it is particularly favored in its program of encouraging organizations to locate here, for its solicitation, it is believed, will strike a strong responsive desire. Almost every national organization would like to make the Capital the central point of its activities, while many have set their eyes on Washington as a goal and wistfully contemplate the time when their national home will be commodiously housed in a fine building in the Capital of the Nation.

Washington in this respect therefore is its own drawing card and advertisement. The committee will follow up its first move by further negotiations and conferences.

The committee also considered a number of replies to letters sent to airplane manufacturing concerns urging establishment here of airplane manufacturing plants. As a result of the sending of the letters, it is said, several "live prospects" are offered. No definite action is possible yet on these prospects, but the committee is greatly encouraged by the developments along this line. C. Phillips Hill, chairman of the committee, presided.

Worried Girl Poisons Self, Police Declare

Despondent because of her inability to obtain employment and worried by creditors who sent her a telegram warning her to pay a clothing bill "in 24 hours," Miss Peggy Holland, 18 years old, attempted suicide yesterday afternoon, police say, by swallowing poison. She was found on the floor of her room at 1414 Rhode Island avenue northwest, by her sister, Isabelle, who sent her to Emergency Hospital. Her condition is said to be serious.

Miss Holland, who lives with her father and sister, is said to have worked as a cashier in a downtown moving picture theater until recently. Miss Isabelle Holland said her sister spent a sleepless night following receipt of the telegram and yesterday she wrote a note to her sister in which she expressed a desire to end her life.

25 NEW DOWNTOWN HACK STANDS HELD TO BE INSUFFICIENT

Diamond Officials Say Hesse's Program Is Needed for Complete Relief.

Twenty-five new downtown hack stands were created by order of the Commissioners yesterday to relieve present conditions. Heretofore only fifteen hack stands with signs have been permitted to suffice for hundreds of vehicles, and independent drivers were arrested for stopping elsewhere.

Officials of the Diamond Cab Co., composed of independent drivers, said yesterday that the 25 new stands, which will be made available as soon as signs can be painted, will provide some relief in the business section. However, they explained it would be necessary to put into effect the full program of the superintendent of police before the relief would be spread over the District as a whole. The 25 stands were selected from a list of 202 stands covering the entire District recommended two months ago by Superintendent of Police Hesse.

Hack Stands Ordered.

The stands ordered were as follows: F street at Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth streets; G street at Fifteenth and North Capitol streets; E street at Thirteenth (two stands), Fourteenth, Eighth and Ninth streets; Pennsylvania avenue at Seventh, Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth and a half street; D street at Seventh and Ninth streets and at John Marshall place; Market space and Eighth street; Fifteenth and H streets; New York avenue and Ninth street; M street at Thomas Circle; Rhode Island avenue and Fourteenth street; Seventeenth street and New York avenue, and K and Seventh streets, all northwest.

The large taxicab companies which enjoy hotel concessions are not pressed for parking or standing space since the hotel fronts are equivalent to hack stands.

In the recommendation of Superintendent of Police Hesse, street space in front of hotels would be converted into public hack stands, with the result that there would be no change from their present condition except that independent hacksters as well as taxicab companies enjoying the concessions would be allowed to park at them. The independent cabs now are barred by force of a court decision many years ago allowing hotels to designate space for vehicles for the use of their guests.

Brown Answers Letter.

William J. Brown, president of the Black & White Taxicab Co., yesterday answered the letter written him the other day by Frank J. Coleman, secretary of the Central Labor Union.

Mr. Brown emphatically denied he was composed of "reds" and "bolsheviks." He declared he and his associates always had been friendly to organized labor and had no quarrel with its support. The Black & White Co., he said, has a considerable patronage in the ranks of organized labor and desires to extend it. He said:

"During the past four years we have constructed in Washington two garages costing upwards of $600,000. These garages were built by firms employing organized labor exclusively. We have subscribed to numerous programs and entertainments of union labor."

Leaders of the newly formed taxicab union here, however, say that the men discharged by the Black & White Co. were discharged for organizing a union and that they had committed no other offense. Mr. Brown, in his letter, did not deny he was opposed to drivers of the Black & White forming or joining a union. Leaders also declare that employees of the Black & White have been ordered to boycott a luncheon in which it is suspected that union talk occurred.

Man Is Crushed Dead By Truck; Driver Held

Burton E. Duval, 45 years old, of 116 Eighteenth street, southeast, was killed last night by police of the Eleventh Precinct, and held for investigation in connection with the death of Morris Leland, a colored, 28 years old, of 176 Benning road, southeast, who was crushed to death yesterday afternoon by a truck alleged to have been driven by Duval.

Butler was driving on the seat of a wagon at Benning road and C street southeast, when he is said to have lost his balance and fallen to the ground in the path of a five-ton truck laden with stone.

City Files to Retain $15,706 Paving Tax

Assistant Corporation Counsel Robert L. Williams, on behalf of the District government, yesterday presented a demurrer in Circuit Court to a suit to recover $15,706 which had been filed by the Chevy Chase Land Co., of Montgomery County, Md.

This sum was assessed under the Board amendment as the company's share of the cost of paving Connecticut avenue extended, and Albemarle, Van Ness and Forty-first streets abutting property of the company. Mr. Williams contends that the money was paid voluntarily and can not now be recovered.

Man's Death Suits.

Hattan A. Waters, of Gaithersburg, Md., administrator of the estate of William Brown, deceased, filed suit yesterday in Circuit Court against Parsons & Hyman, Inc., contractors, 1010 Vermont avenue, northwest, to recover $10,000 damages. Through Attorney Emerson, Kelly & Hinman it is alleged that Brown, on September 14, 1926, while employed by the contractors in the construction of a hydroelectric plant on Conduit road, was crushed to death by a rock, which fell back into a shaft in which he was working.

HIGHWAY PLAN CHANGED IN UNDEVELOPED AREAS

Extension of Fourteenth Street From Walter Reed, Is Authorized.

LAND PURCHASE ORDERED

Changes in the highway plan for undeveloped sections of the city were made at an intermediate session of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission yesterday, the District Commissioners having reported their approval.

They include elimination from the highway plan of Volta place between Forty-second and Forty-fourth streets in the area between Georgetown University and Foxhall Village, and changes in the location of Twenty-seventh street and Swart road just north of Broad Branch road in order to preserve the line and grade of the existing old thoroughfare there.

Purchase of several small tracts, totaling more than 30 acres, was authorized by the commission. It will acquire a considerable part of the Takoma recreation center, 12 acres lying between Fifth, Third, Sheridan and Underwood streets and several small areas totaling approximately 19 acres in the Shepard parkway along the bluff between Blue Plains reservation and the naval air station at Anacostia. Condemnation of about 3 acres in the Piney Branch district west of Sixteenth street also was reported.

FREE MARKET SPACE IS OFFERED FARMERS

Part of Convention Hall Property Can Be Utilized, J. S. Blick, Says.

John S. Blick, president of the Washington Convention Hall Co., yesterday transmitted to the District Commissioners an offer to permit farmers bringing produce to market to occupy gratis part of the property of the company either permanently or temporarily pending location of the farmers' market on a new site.

The Commissioners saw in the offer a possible solution for the emergency that confronts them by the recent demand of the Treasury Department that the vacant part of the property of the company be vacated at once to permit immediate starting of the erection of the Internal Revenue Building.

Leo Simmons, an attorney, also wrote the Commissioners. He suggested that the farmers temporarily be permitted to sell their wares along Ohio avenue northwest between Twelfth and Thirtieth streets, extending northward in the latter street if necessary. The Commissioners took no action.

MEMORIAL CRAFTS ELECT R. H. WARNER

Delegates, Following Vote, Visit Mount Vernon and Marshall Hall.

Robert H. Warner, of Raleigh, N. C., was elected president, and R. L. Belknap, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was elected vice president of the Memorial Craftsman of America at the closing session of their annual convention here yesterday. The present indications are that the next convention will be held at West Baden, Ind.

The art and design show of memorial craftsmanship on the Union Station Plaza was closed yesterday. The business of the twenty-second annual convention completed, the delegates and their families in the afternoon journeyed to Mount Vernon and then passed the evening at Marshall Hall, where a Southern barbecue was served.

The tents housing the design show on Union Station Plaza will be taken down just as soon as the various exhibits are crated and shipped. This is the first time the show has been held under canvas and the delegates and exhibitors voted the affair a success.

ONE-MAN CAR HEARING CALLED FOR CITIZENS

James G. Yaden, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, has called a special meeting of the federation to consider the pending proposal of the Public Utilities Commission to reverse the policy of its predecessor commission and permit extension of the use of one-man street cars.

Yaden called yesterday at the office of John W. Childers, chairman of the commission, but the latter was out. He left a note saying that if the commission would not dispose of the subject next week the federation would meet the evening of August 27. The commission already had decided to postpone action.

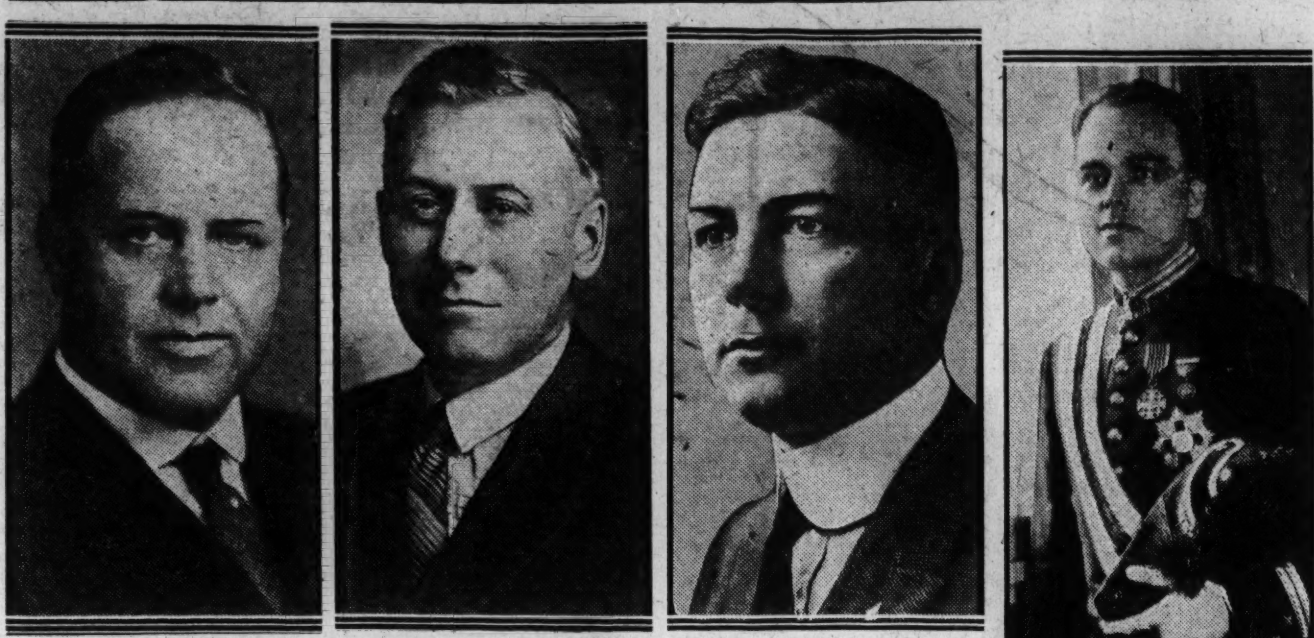

OVER HERE—OVER THERE—

THE APPROACH OF WINTER MEANT THAT ACTIVE CAMPAIGNING AT THE FRONT WOULD SOON END, TO BE RESUMED IN THE SPRING OF 1918. MILITARY LEADERS WERE ACTIVELY PREPARING FOR THE GREAT GERMAN DRIVE FOR VICTORY WHICH WAS EXPECTED EARLY IN 1918. AS AN IMPORTANT STEP IN THIS PREPARATION PRESIDENT WILSON URGED THE ALLIES TO ADOPT A PLAN FOR NAVAL WARFARE.

ON THE BASIS OF THE ABOVE FACTS IT WAS THOUGHT THAT THE GERMAN NAVAL EFFORTS WOULD BE LIMITED TO U-BOATS. THE KAISER, ADDRESSING HIS SUBMARINE CREWS GATHERED IN THE NORTH SEA, ASSURED THEM THAT THE UNDERSEA FIGHTING HAD HARDLY BEGUN.

SUBMARINE WARFARE HAD DESTROYED HUNDREDS OF MERCHANT VESSELS CARRYING SUPPLIES TO THE ALLIES. PRESIDENT WILSON WAS PERSUADED THAT THIS WAS THE CRUCIAL PROBLEM OF THE WAR, AND SUCCESSFULLY URGED THE ADOPTION OF THE CONVOY SYSTEM FOR SEEING CARGOES OF FOOD AND MUNITIONS THROUGH.

COURT ASKED TO BAR OFFICE BUILDING SALE

Plaintiff Holds Value of Vermont Structure Is Misrepresented to Him.

The Equity Court was asked yesterday to prevent a foreclosure sale of the Vermont office building, at L street and Vermont avenue, which is scheduled for August 25. The plaintiff is James E. Glass, of Swarthmore, Pa., who asks the court to set aside a contract whereby he exchanged certain property in Gloucester County, N. J., for the building.

The defendants are Andrew D. Porter, Percy W. Pickford, who are sued individually and as trustees, and Mildred J. Davis. The Merchants Bank & Trust Co. and Charles J. Crump.

Through Attorneys F. Regis Noel and W. C. Sullivan the plaintiff says that the value of the building was represented to him to be $800,000, whereas, he says, it is worth only $600,000, which is covered by two deeds of trust. The income of the building was represented to be $8,300 per month, whereas, Glass says, it is less than $2,500.

NORTHEAST CHURCH. Workmen were proceeding yesterday with the first steps in the erection of a new home on Rhode Island avenue northeast, near Twentieth street, for the St. Francis de Sales Catholic church. Work of tearing down the dwelling on their new site was started yesterday.

$750 Verdict Given Minor in Crash Case

The Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Washington Rapid Transit Co., codefendants in a $5,000 personal injury suit filed in Circuit Court by Dorothy Way, minor, of 446 Buchanan street northwest, consented to a verdict for $750 against them yesterday in favor of the plaintiff.

The result of a collision between a bus in which the plaintiff was riding and a street car at New Hampshire avenue and Upshur street on June 7. Jerry and Antonio Matlico, 238 G street northeast, defendants in a $5,000 personal injury suit filed by Frank Brizzi, a minor, of 610 Fifth street northeast, consented to a verdict against them for $125 in favor of Brizzi. The latter charged that he had been bitten by a dog belonging to the defendants on January 4, 1926.

Renewed War on the Submarine

ALLIED NAVAL COMMANDERS, INCLUDING ADMIRAL MAYO, AMERICAN, CONFERRED ON WAYS TO COUNTER THE SUBMARINES. IT WAS DECIDED TO DEVOTE MOST OF THE AMERICAN NAVY TO THIS PURPOSE, KEEPING ONE BATTLE SQUADRON OF CAPITAL SHIPS IN THE WATERS OF THE NORTH SEA FOR ACTION WITH THE BRITISH FLEET.

WITH CONTROL OF THE SURFACE THE ALLIES FELT REASONABLY SURE THEY COULD CONTROL THE SUBMARINES. EVEN THE SMALLEST ARMED VESSEL WAS A DEADLY FOE OF SUBMERGIBLES, WHICH A DIRECT HIT WOULD SINK. OUR SHIPYARDS, THEREFORE, BEGAN RE-MODELING SMALL CRAFT INTO SUBCHASERS.

Suit Filed to Prevent Transfer Truck Sale

Suit to prevent the sale by the collector of taxes of a truck of the Big 4 Transfer Co. for alleged nonpayment of taxes was filed yesterday in Equity Court by the Ruggies Motor Truck Co., of Saginaw, Mich.

The plaintiff, through Attorney James Conlon, says that it sold the truck on a conditional bill of sale to the Big 4 concern and that the latter still owes $3,200. The sale of the truck is scheduled for August 22. It is charged that the interest of the plaintiff in the truck will be endangered by the proposed sale by the collector of taxes. The court is asked to appoint a receiver to sell the truck.

TWO ARRESTED IN LIQUOR RAID MADE DOWNTOWN

Six Quarts of Whisky Also Seized and Book Containing Hundreds of Names.

The men arrested gave their names as Leonard Jones, 28 years old, and Frank Litt, 43, both of Hyattsville, Md. They are charged with illegal possession and sale of liquor.

The police battered down a three-inch oak door at the entrance to the establishment when they were denied admittance. Those in charge of the place had a mail box through which they peered from the inside to see who was outside. When they saw Sgt. Little and Douthitt, police say, they ran to the rear of the place and attempted to hide the alleged liquor by lowering it on a dumbwaiter. The device failed to operate promptly and the door crashed in under the blows of the raiders.

A black book containing the names of several hundred persons was seized and taken to the Sixth Precinct station.

The raiding party included Policemen George C. Deyoe, Leo Murray, O. Montgomery and Prohibition Agent R. F. Cornet.

Louis Rosenthal, 33 years old, of 1103 Twentieth street northwest, was arrested yesterday by police who raided his near-by establishment and confiscated seven gallons of alleged corn whisky.

The raid on Rosenthal's place was conducted by the Flying squad under Sgt. George D. Little. Rosenthal was charged with illegal possession and with sale of liquor.

WAR OFFICIALS DENY 30,000 RESERVE CUT

Mobilization Plan, However, to Be Revised in Future, Department Says.

Denial of reports that the six-Fly Army program had been abandoned, involving dismissal of approximately 30,000 reserve officers, was made yesterday by the War Department.

Department officials explained that all war plans, including the mobilization one, must be revised and adjusted from time to time to meet changes of conditions and the results of experience. For such a purpose, they said, the mobilization plan is to be revised in the near future, but they denied that the readjustment, explained last week, will occasion any reduction in the number of reserve officers, or that they would be subjected to any injustice because of it.

On the contrary, they showed where recently there were adopted policies which should affect an increase in the number of reserve officers, and that the regulations conforming with these new policies are intended to provide a more healthy flow of promotion than formerly was possible.

DISTRICT HEADS DENY POLICEMAN'S APPEAL

Uphold Trial Board Fine for the Unwarranted Use of Revolver.

The District Commissioners yesterday denied the appeal of Policeman E. M. Taylor from the decision of the Police Trial Board, which fined him $25 for unwarranted use of his revolver July 17.

Taylor, on a motorcycle, was pursuing a man he said he suspected of being a bootlegger in a fleeing from him at a speed of 35 miles an hour near Benning road and Twentieth street northeast. The policeman said he fired two shots in the air to prevent the alleged bootlegger from leaping from the car.

The fugitive left his machine notwithstanding the shots, and the car smashed into the front porch of a residence, damaging the property. The trial board held that Taylor fired unnecessarily and not in defense of his life. The Commissioners sustained the verdict.

Thfts by Gypsy Woman Reported

Police are looking for a gypsy fortune teller who is victimizing colored people. According to reports made to police, the gypsy woman "steals" money or clothing of her "subjects" for a few hours to read their minds more clearly. When she obtains the goods she does not return them.

Roosevelt Jenkins and Sally Campbell, of 3324 Sherman avenue, reported that in this manner they lost $65, and Elizabeth Jenkins, 1713 Nineteenth street northeast, said she lost $25 and a quantity of clothing.

District Food Prices Show Fall in Month

The cost of eating in Washington has decreased 3 per cent since June 15, but is still 64 per cent higher than it was in 1913 statistics covering the cost of retail food prices, compiled by the Department of Labor, show.

The price of cabbage decreased 49 per cent and led the list of foodstuffs that decreased in price. Potatoes, onions, ham, bacon, butter, canned corn and coffee are on that list. Fresh eggs increased in price 10 per cent during July.

DRIVE TO MAKE CITY CENTER OF NATIONAL ASSOCIATIONS BEGUN

The first move of the committee will be to send a letter to organizations urging establishment of national headquarters here. The letter will cite the advantages of Washington, saying the National Capital is the proper place for national things.

Although many organizations on their own account have established national headquarters here or have made initial moves in that direction, and local trade groups have encouraged them, this will be the first organized action taken by local business groups by way of solicitation, it is said.

CAPITAL HELD PLACE FOR U. S. HEADQUARTERS

"Live Prospects" Declared Offered in Solicitation for Airplane Plants.

An organized effort to bring headquarters of national organizations of all kinds to Washington was started by the committee on new industries of the joint industrial union, composed of representatives of the various trade organizations of this region, at a meeting yesterday in the offices of the Chamber of Commerce in the Homer Building.

The first move of the committee will be to send a letter to organizations urging establishment of national headquarters here. The letter will cite the advantages of Washington, saying the National Capital is the proper place for national things.

Although many organizations on their own account have established national headquarters here or have made initial moves in that direction, and local trade groups have encouraged them, this will be the first organized action taken by local business groups by way of solicitation, it is said.

Capital Own Drawing Card.

The committee feels it is particularly favored in its program of encouraging organizations to locate here, for its solicitation, it is believed, will strike a strong responsive desire. Almost every national organization would like to make the Capital the central point of its activities, while many have set their eyes on Washington as a goal and wisely contemplate the time when their national home will be commodiously housed in a fine building in the Capital of the Nation.

Washington in this respect therefore is its own drawing card and advertisement. The committee will follow up its first move by further negotiations and conferences.

Worried-Girl Poisons Self, Police Declare

Despondent because of her inability to obtain employment and worried by creditors who sent her a telegram warning her to pay a clothing bill "in 24 hours," Miss Peggy Holland, 16 years old, attempted suicide yesterday afternoon, police say, by swallowing poison.

She was found on the floor of her room at 1416 Rhode Island avenue northwest, by her sister, Isabelle, who sent her to Emergency Hospital. Her condition is said to be serious.

Miss Holland lives with her father and sister, is said to have worked as a cashier in a downtown moving picture theater until recently. Miss Isabelle Holland said a sister-in-law, who is a nurse, told her that her sister had been poisoned and that she had written a note to her sister in which she expressed a desire to end her life.

$168 Fines Imposed In Traffic Cases

Judge Gus A. Schulte imposed fines totaling $168 upon traffic law violators in Traffic Court last night. Edward McMartin, 713 Nineteenth street northwest, was fined $50 on a charge of reckless driving, the heaviest fine imposed last night.

Benjamin Schwartzman, 248 Third street northwest, and James E. Reynolds, 748 Lamont street northwest, were fined $25 and $15, respectively, for driving without operators' permits. John R. Seaton, 1305 Buchanan street northwest, was fined $25 on a charge of driving an automobile with defective brakes and was ordered to pay a fine of $25.
